

Shenandoah Survivor Says Big Zep Sounded Similar in Hull Collapse

Chief Boatwain's Mate Tobin Says
Flame Accompanied by Noise Like Snapping Wires; Saw Exhaust Sparks.

CHAMBERLIN VIEW

Clarence Chamberlin Says Snapper's Bullet "Might Explain" Hindenburg Disaster.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 13 (AP).—A survivor of the disaster to the American navy dirigible Shenandoah told a commencement department, investigating board today the first noise he heard when the destruction of the German Zeppelin Hindenburg began was much like that on the Shenandoah when her hull collapsed.

The witness, chief boatwain's mate, F. J. Tobin, describing the beginning of the end of the Hindenburg a week ago tonight with the loss of 35 lives, said:

"There burst out of the tail of the ship a burst of smoke and flame accompanied by a noise that I likened to breaking wires."

He was asked whether the noise resembled that of the Shenandoah when it broke in two.

"It brought to my mind that incident," Tobin replied.

Before Tobin was called, Lieut. R. S. Andrews, of the naval air station here, testified he saw sparks in the exhaust stream of the Hindenburg before she burst into flames.

"I've seen them come out before so I didn't think anything of it," he added. They "trailed out aft, clear of the ship," he said. "It wasn't a great, big shower—just a black exhaust with sparks in it."

Andrews saw flash.
Andrews, an assistant mooring officer, said he first saw a flash and almost immediately heard an explosion.

The fire made a "hissing sound," he said. He described the "definite detonation" as similar to a gun powder explosion—a shell bursting, or something like that, he said.

As the inquiry went forward, discussion elsewhere was aroused by the remark of Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, at Spartenburg, S. C., that a snapper's bullet "might explain" the Hindenburg disaster.

Chamberlin referred specifically to two planes landing recently at Benedict, in northern New Jersey, with bullet holes in their fuselage. His comment recalled also to those at the naval air station that a snapper once fired on the dirigible Los Angeles, since decommissioned, and that the all-metal navy blimp KMC-2 had been shot at and hit by snipers on three occasions.

Tobin, giving the investigating board his version of the Hindenburg disaster, said it was his job that night to watch for anything which might go wrong and proceed to the spot to help with the mooring.

Rudder "Hard Right."
As the zeppelin approached, he testified, the top rudder was "hard right," although it should have been synchronized with the lower rudder. Two men asked him if he noticed it, he said.

The ship passed on and made "continual left turn," until it nosed into the wind for a mooring. The trail ropes were dropped. Then came the explosion.

Men handling the starboard line "stood appalled for a moment," he said. By the time they had gotten out from under the bow of the ship, the tail was on the ground.

Tobin said he was uncertain about the engines at the time of the explosion, but his last recollection was that "they were backing, turning with a little more speed than usual."

He said the noise of the motors was not irregular, but he was too far forward to be sure how they were turning.

In the wreckage, he said, he had noticed a small tackle attached to the control system for the lower fin which looked as though it was "nothing permanent—an emergency measure done in a hurry."

"To what purpose?" asked Mulligan.

Tobin said he was not sufficiently familiar with the control system to answer definitely but suggested the tackle might have been used to take up slack, and prevent the rudder from swinging freely. One rudder could be disconnected and the other still function, he said.

"Have you rigged and operated steering equipment?" Mulligan asked.

"Yes."

Bits of Propeller.

Bits of a broken propeller, found inside the twisted wreckage of the dirigible Hindenburg, also held the attention of federal investigators today as they studied the theory that a shattered blade sent the airship to her doom a week ago tonight with the loss of 35 lives.

The investigators planned to call a wood expert to match the pieces and find from which propeller they came. They found the wooden fragments during a 2½ hour inspection of the wreckage yesterday after the second day of testimony by eye-witnesses to the disaster.

Other members of the inquiry board gave this theory less credence, holding that the propeller might have broken when the zeppelin fell. The board agreed, however, again to study photographs in an attempt to learn whether the propellers were intact as the Hindenburg dived to the ground.

Changes Her Mind

Nan Macy Brill went to Los Angeles court to get an annulment of her brief marriage to William Hunsaker Brill but changed her mind while she was on the witness stand and sobbed that she didn't want it.

State Head Denies Appeal to Set Aside Hurley School Plan

Albany, May 13 (special).—State Education Commissioner Frank P. Graves has dismissed an appeal filed with the department by Ronald R. Cameron, who asked that action of a special school district meeting conducted in common school district 4 of the town of Hurley, Ulster county, in authorizing construction of a new school building, be set aside.

In his application to have the meeting's decision voided, Cameron, a resident of the district, urged that the meeting be illegal because only 5 days had elapsed between the service of notice and the date of the meeting, whereas the Education law requires a lapse of 6 days. Dr. Graves, however, pointed out in his opinion that the Education law also states that no meeting, annual or special, may be held illegal because of want of due notice unless it appears that the omission to give notice was wilful or fraudulent.

Not Wilful.
"It is apparent here," reads Dr. Graves' opinion, "that failure to give notice was neither wilful nor fraudulent. The meeting was well attended and no objection to the sufficiency of the notice was made at it. The resolution authorizing construction of a building passed by a substantial majority."

"The school meeting was held at the town hall and not at the school-house and the petitioner (Cameron) would have the meeting set aside for such reason. There is nothing in the papers to indicate that anyone was prejudiced because of such fact."

No Specific Order.
"The petitioner (Cameron) also complains," continues Dr. Graves, "that of the three resolutions specified in the notice, the third resolution was voted on first. It was carried and, being inconsistent with the other resolutions, the other two were not then voted upon. I know of no requirement that the electors at a meeting must vote upon resolutions in any given order, and I do not find that the procedure followed at this meeting in voting upon this resolution was illegal."

"The appeal is therefore dismissed."

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, May 13 (AP).—The position of the treasury May 11: Receipts, $37,013,001.79; expenditures, $19,990,793.48; balance, $1,713,113,841.66; customs receipts for the month, $1,712,136.75. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $4,249,807,127.16; expenditures, $6,514,009,195.43; including $2,452,544,891.63 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,264,202,088.27; gross debt, $35,038,143,084.23; a decrease of $134,328.19 under the previous day; gold assets, $11,867,428,754.09, including $636,122,120.39 of inactive gold.

Statue Blown Up

Dublin, Irish Free State, May 13 (AP).—The equestrian statue of King George II, in centrally located Stephens Green Park, was blown up today. The blast smashed windows of buildings around the park but no injuries were reported. The streets were littered with glass. Several hours before the explosion police discovered a large store of ammunition in the Stephens Green vicinity.

Lien Against Spreckels

San Francisco, May 13 (AP).—An income tax lien for $76,777 was on file against Rudolph Spreckels in federal court today. John V. Lewis, international revenue collector, said the lien was for taxes owed the government on 1932 income received from the City Investment Company, Ltd. Spreckels' address was given as 82 Wall Street, New York.

House Opinion Favors Roosevelt's Program For U. S. Work Relief

Attempts of "Economy Bloc" Will Be Nullified, Sentiment Indicates,
on Billion and Half Schedule—Appropriations Vote Soon.

TWO FACTORS

Decision to Act Quickly on Subcommittee's Recommendation Influenced by Two Factors.

Washington, May 13 (AP).—Administration leaders said today a poll of house sentiment indicated approval of President Roosevelt's request for a $1,500,000,000 work-relief fund, despite attempts of an "economy bloc" to slash it by one-third.

The House Appropriations Committee was called together to vote on the relief allotment for the year beginning July 1 before the president returns tomorrow from his vacation.

Informed persons said the decision to act quickly on a subcommittee's recommendation that only $1,000,000,000 be used for relief was influenced by two factors:

Fear of "rubber stamp" charges by opponents if the group waited to act after the chief executive's return.

Conviction of leaders that the full committee would vote nearly two to one for restoring the president's $1,500,000,000 figure.

The relief issue probably will reach the house floor late next week, leaders said.

Economy advocates in the senate, undaunted by failure of their attempt to stop authorization of a new dam in the Tennessee valley, concentrated their budget-balancing campaign on a $60,000,000 cut in soil conservation payments for next year. They admitted the opposition would be strong.

Byrnes Not Discouraged.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC), a leader of the economy fight, said he was not discouraged by yesterday's 46 to 29 vote to start construction on a $112,000,000 dam at Gilbertville, Ky. The senate included about $2,700,000 to start the dam in approving an $81,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill.

The vote, Byrnes said, was an argument for his proposed flat reduction of 10 percent in all appropriations for next year.

"That was no test of economy sentiment," he declared. "It was a vote based upon the personal appeals of the senators interested in the individual project. Economy cannot be practiced on individual items."

The ultimate fate of the horizontal cut proposal was delivered by many congressmen to depend on the attitude of President Roosevelt.

The $870,600,000 agriculture appropriation bill reached the senate floor late yesterday. Administration leaders continued to rush the vital supply measures through in hopes of passing all regular appropriation bills before President Roosevelt's court bill comes up for senate debate.

The agriculture bill as passed by the House contained $500,000,000 for next year's soil conservation payments, but the Senate Appropriations Committee recommended a reduction to $440,000,000.

Secretary Wallace told reporters the proposed reduction would mean "we will have to pay individual farmers probably about 12 per cent less."

The Senate, meanwhile appeared heading toward a disagreement with the House over whether to make the Civilian Conservation Corps a permanent agency.

The House yesterday ignored the President's recommendations and voted 385 to 7 to limit the life of the CCC to two years.

Injured in a Fall

It was reported to the police department Wednesday that Mrs. Anna Dederick of 33 Van Buren street, sustained injuries in a fall on the sidewalk on upper Broadway. She sustained a sprained ankle and a number of body bruises.

King George VI Awaits Baldwin's Call to Open Imperial Conference To Define New Policy for Empire

KING ASKS PEACE

Peace of World of Great Moment to Monarch — Drives Through London With Queen.

(By The Associated Press)

London, May 13.—Empire statesmen faced today the task of the medieval symbolism of the coronation of George VI, king-emperor of Britain, to the modern realities of the commonwealth's most pressing problems.

Prime ministers and representatives of the Dominions of India, having paid their tributes to their monarch and his queen, Elizabeth, awaited the call of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin tomorrow that will open the imperial conference.

Seven years of sweeping change have passed since the empire met last in formal conference in 1930. Attention has turned from internal problems to concern for foreign affairs and defense of the empire.

Britain confronts a world obstructed by trade barriers damming the commerce which sustains the empire, alarmed by threats to its peace structure and remaining competitiveness.

Clear Statement

Dominion prime ministers, now standing equally with officials of the united kingdom, will ask for a clear statement of British policy at home and abroad.

They will want to know the empire's stand on the League of Nations, on European affairs, on empire trade, and on defense of Britain's "lifeline" communications should war engulf it or any of its components.

Britain's newly crowned King and Queen got a little respite today before starting the whirl of post-coronation festivities.

George VI lingered this morning at Buckingham Palace after yesterday's exhausting ordeal. He and Elizabeth scanned many of the 40,000 telegrams of felicitation they received from all over the world.

During the morning the royal regalia—St. Edward's Crown, the sword of state and other jewel-studded coronation symbols—were returned to safe keeping in the Tower of London.

Drives Through London

This afternoon King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, smiling and rested, drove through London streets in a surprise post-coronation tour.

The town was amazed and delighted. A closed car, bearing their majesties, rolled through the Buckingham Palace gateway and along the Mall shortly after noon.

Neither the King nor the Queen showed the slightest sign of fatigue. They beamed and waved at the crowds that surged forward to slow the process of the limousine as it entered the Mall.

From the Mall the car crossed Great Trafalgar Square, scene of tumult during yesterday's procession of state, and up Charing Cross road to Shaftesbury avenue, thence into the North London area.

Their majesties, it was understood, wanted to drive through North London streets because that is one of the areas they have not toured during the coronation period.

Visited Palace

They previously visited the people's palace in the east end and drove through south and southeast London to visit the opening of the Greenwich National Maritime Museum.

Although the drive was entirely unannounced, the news spread rapidly. A half hour before the car arrived at Leather Lane and Clerkenwell road, in the poorer working class district, the streets were jammed with thousands.

The people, bursting through police cordons, almost stopped the police car which preceded their majesties.

Children Wave Flags

Hundreds of children, holding flags, made a lane for the limousine. The bobbies, standing at 15-yard intervals, could not restrain the crowd's enthusiasm.

Hurriedly lettered banners, inscribed "The Leather Lane Traders Greet Their Majesties" and "God Bless the King and Queen," were thrown across the roadway.

The royal couple were obviously pleased by the reception. But the queen, just as obviously, was nervous about the children who poured into the street in front of the big car.

When the procession emerged from Leather Lane, the struggling police had made a path just wide enough for the automobile.

All over the 14-mile route their

State Responsible In Death and Injury On Storm King Road

Albany, N. Y., May 13 (AP).—New York state is held responsible by the appellate division of the Supreme Court, third department, for deaths and injuries caused by falling rock in the Storm King highway during spring thaws.

The court in a three to two decision yesterday reversed dismissal by the court of claims of damage suits amounting to more than $275,000 resulting from accidents in the mountain highway along the Hudson river.

In the prevailing opinion, presiding Justice James P. Hill and Justices John C. Crapser and Christopher J. Heffernan held that it was the state's duty to maintain the highway "in a reasonably safe condition for travel."

Justice Leon C. Rhodes and F. Walter Bliss held, however, that the accidents were the result of a landslide "or so-called act of God, which a reasonably prudent person would not have anticipated."

Among claims upheld by the decision was one for $100,000 by Mrs. Gertrude H. Shanks of Brooklyn for the death of her husband, Lambert, and claims amounting to $176,602 by Otto Seilheimer of Hackensack, N. J., for the deaths of his wife and son and injuries to himself and a daughter.

The claims were the sequel to accidents on April 8, 1934, when three persons were killed and three automobiles were hit by rocks.

New Uptown Lighting Blazes Forth Tonight

Kingston's new uptown lighting system blazes forth tonight, Mayor Heiselman said he had been informed by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation this morning. The uptown district is expected to see the night illumination at 8 o'clock.

The mayor called attention to the fact that the system is not complete yet, that at least two of the poles where the new lights are to be placed have not been erected because they will be set on spots now occupied by the former system. The old system will not be torn down for some time, he said, because business houses must be connected to the underground conduits before the old poles may be removed.

Nevertheless, the mayor said the new system will give more and better light, especially at street intersections, and for that reason it was thought advisable to put the new system into operation at the earliest possible moment.

Attention was also called to the fact that some of the new poles are placed side by side with the old ones. These old poles will be removed, which will improve the appearance of the system.

Fire Quickly Put Out.

Shortly after 8:30 p. m. Wednesday an alarm was turned in from Box 16 for a fire in a tree on Lindsey avenue. The fire was quickly extinguished with the aid of a booster pumper from one of the fire trucks.

Story of Fuller Shirt Factory's History and Growth Belies Rumor Kingston Business Life on Wane

Kingston industrial activity, considered by many to be on the wane, underwent a quick revival in the Rotary meeting at the Governor Clinton yesterday noon when Clarence Rowland, manager of The Fuller Shirt Company of this city, spoke about the steady growth of his organization since its beginning in 1892. His talk, glowing with statistics proving progress in one of Kingston's key industries, put to rest the feeling that this city was dead and inert in an industrial sense. Mr. Rowland's history of the Fuller Shirt Company was a pleasing study in the growth of a small plant into a large industry, today employing over 500 skilled workmen, with a payroll approximating $375,000 and capable of turning out 1,400,000 finished and boxed shirts per year.

The speaker's discussion of the Fuller Company was a record well worth hearing. Founded in 1892 by Isiah Fuller, the small plant was located on Prince street and occupied the second floor of the Lawton building. In 1903 the firm moved to its present location at Pine Grove avenue, occupying the first and second floors of the factory building built at that time. The plant took up about 20,000 square feet of floor space. James S. Fuller, a son of the founder, was active in the business during this period. After his death in 1918, his sister, Miss Annie K. Fuller, took an active interest in the concern and became president of the corporation. "It has been through her courage and her personal interest in the welfare of her employees that the business has grown to where it is today," said Mr. Rowland.

In 1920, it became apparent that additional room was necessary and 10,000 more square feet of floor space was added. At that time the factory was employing about 250 people. The concern continued to prosper and in 1928 additions were added to the main plant so that today there is about 40,000 square feet of floor space in the factory buildings. In addition to this, on January 1 of this year, the concern leased the main floor and basement of the Pallen plant on Broadway in order to have an additional 12,000 square foot of floor space for the cutting various departments into specialized department and stock room.

Mr. Rowland outlined the plant's categories. These included the piece goods department, the cutting, stitching, pressing, boxing and snipping and Trubenizing departments. He also stated that although the plant's cafeteria couldn't be catalogued as a department, it had nevertheless been instrumental in the concern's growth. This cafeteria is in charge of two experienced women who look after the welfare of the female employees. There is no set time for a rest period for any of the plant's workers and each one has the privilege of using the cafeteria once each morning and afternoon. Mr.

Windsor Demands Bride-to-Be Get Full British Recognition

Monts, France, May 13 (AP).—The Duke of Windsor demanded today that the British government leave him free to make his own wedding plans and respect Wallis Warfield, his bride-to-be so, as he told his mother, "we can all be happy once more."

The royal family backed the former King's insistence that the government not interfere with Edward's plans for a public wedding to Mrs. Warfield and that it recognize her officially as the Duchess of Windsor.

The Duke discussed the situation with Queen Mother Mary by telephone and urged the beloved Mary to try and clear up the problem. It has deadlocked government and royal family.

"Mother, we can all be happy once more," he was said to have told her. "If Queen Mary and King George VI can bring the government around to approving the marriage."

Differences in Open

His insistence, which had the approval of the Queen Mother and King George VI, brought into the open the difference between the House of Windsor and the Cabinet over the forthcoming nuptials.

The cabinet has taken the stand that the marriage should be strictly private and not be attended by any member of the royal family except as a private person.

The government may even demand a religious service if the duke persists in his demand for a public wedding.

This, one source said, would necessitate finding an Anglican minister to officiate, despite the Church of England's opposition to Edward's marriage to the former Mrs. Simpson.

Edward Very Happy.

Edward meanwhile was described by his friend and spokesman, Herman L. Rogers, as very happy the coronation of his brother yesterday had gone so smoothly.

Rogers, commenting on the celebration which the duke staged in honor of the coronation, declared: "All of us had a swell time last night."

The government's insistence against attendance of any member of the House of Windsor at former King Edward's wedding was said to have been the direct cause of the duke's postponing of the ceremony until June.

The move was made, friends said, at the request of his brother and newly crowned successor, King George VI, who is leading the fight for formal recognition of the romance which caused Edward to renounce the throne.

Talks With Family.

Edward was understood to have

Classics Easy for Cirrone; Seeks to Change His Prison

The classics prove to be no stumbling block for Thomas Cirrone, an inmate of the Napanoch Institution for Male Mental Defectives, who is seeking to be released from that institution and sent back to Clinton State Prison at Dannemora to complete a 25 year term in prison for robbery, first degree. Cirrone appeared before Justice Russell Wednesday afternoon in supreme court under a writ of habeas corpus and stated that he was familiar with the classics. Just to demonstrate his prowess he recited a couple of passages from "The Merchant of Venice" and told the court that he was familiar with Shakespeare.

Another author whom he was very familiar with he said was Dumas and he sketched a brief summary of "The Count of Monte Cristo." When Cirrone came to that portion where the count is imprisoned he turned to the court and smiled broadly and then related the return to society, apparently thinking of himself as a parallel case.

The summary took perhaps five minutes to tell and Cirrone knew his book well, as he concluded the brief summary, he turned to the court and said:

A Long Story

"I could go on for two hours and explain the story better," but the court replied that the brief sketch was sufficient.

Cirrone said he was born in Italy and came to America at the age of seven and for about four years he went to school. He reached the fourth grade but apparently he was not a model student for he said he became a truant at the age of 12 and his first crime was when he was 20 years old.

Asked what crime he had committed when he was given the 25 years in Clinton State Prison, Cirrone replied it was robbery, first.

"With a gun?" asked Justice Russell.

"No, sir," replied the petitioner.

"It must have been with a gun in order to get that term," replied Justice Russell.

"No sir, I was a second offender," replied Cirrone.

He told the court that he had served time in Clinton Prison and then was transferred to Napanoch as a mentally deficient case.

According to the records of the prison authorities Cirrone's mental age is placed at nine years and 11 months. He has been examined several times.

Asked why he wanted to be returned to Clinton prison to serve out his term Cirrone explained that he did not like the stigma of being confined to an institution for mental deficiencies.

Presents Letters

As proof that he was capable of returning to prison and getting along there he offered through his lawyer several letters which he had written to his mother, brother and cousins over a period of years. Some were in his own handwriting and others were typewritten.

Justice Russell inquired how the letters had been typed and Cirrone explained that he had typed them himself in his cell on his own typewriter. He said he had bought the typewriter and learned to operate it.

Several of the letters were offered in evidence and Justice Russell, who once taught school, read several extracts and then stated that the composition of the letters, the language used and the general construction indicated that Cirrone had an unusually good command of the English language.

"Why some of those letters are better than some business men could write," stated the court after reading paragraphs.

Officials from Napanoch were called to testify as to Cirrone's history. Justice Russell stated that it appeared as though Cirrone was an unusually high type of man for the institution. He asked the officials just what it was that caused Cirrone to be retained there, there could be some hidden defect which was not apparent to the casual examiner who did not observe the patient over a period of time.

A High Type

Captain J. L. Hoffman, superintendent, as well as one of the doctors from the institution was called. The superintendent stated that Cirrone was a high type but that there were others of equally high type confined there. He said Cirrone was subject to excitable periods when he "tends to blow up" but he said these periods were short.

In reply to the court's question one of the witnesses explained that Cirrone was a "verbalist" who did write an exceptionally intelligent letter.

Cirrone said he had studied English since being in prison and had also studied Spanish. He said he had taken up English and found comfort in reading the classics.

Cirrone's record dates back to Elmira Reformatory as well as Clinton Prison.

Justice Russell stated that from the appearance of the petitioner and his writings he appeared to be bright enough not to be in the institution. Asked what the idea of being returned to Clinton State prison from Napanoch was, Captain Hoffman said Cirrone did not like the idea of being confined to an institution for mental cases, he had so told the superintendent.

Judge Russell stated that the case was a most unusual one, if Cirrone had no hidden peculiarities which only a long examination might disclose he said he believed the petitioner was sufficiently well to have his petition for return to Clinton granted.

The petitioner was represented by counsel and also had two physicians present in court to testify as to his mental status.

After hearing considerable testimony Justice Russell requested counsel and Captain Hoffman to talk the matter over in chambers.

Democrats to Meet

The Fifth Ward Democratic Club will hold its regular meeting this evening at the club rooms, 237 East Strand, at 8:15 o'clock.

Kills Self with Gun, Was in Ill Health

Albert C. Lasher, 41, unmarried, who made his home with his mother, Mrs. Clarence Lasher, on their farm between Saxton and High Falls, in the town of Saugerties, committed suicide Wednesday morning, by shooting himself in the mouth with a heavy calibre rifle.

Lasher's body was found by his brother, Perry Lasher, and a neighbor, who had gone to search for him when he did not return to the house for dinner. He was lying on the ground near the edge of a patch of woods about half a mile from the house, the entire top of his head having been blown off by the heavy soft-nosed bullet.

Sergeant James Cunningham and Trooper Walter Keefe were summoned and Coroner Norvin R. Lasher, of Saugerties, notified. Coroner Lasher rendered a verdict of suicide on account of ill health.

From the fact as learned by Coroner Lasher the unfortunate man had taken his life about 9:15 that morning. He had attended to the chores about the place as usual and had then taken the team and gone to the field to work. His brother, Percy, happened to visit the place and when Albert said he was not feeling well took charge of the team. Albert went back to the house, got his rifle and went off toward the woods. Later a shot was heard, but nothing thought of it, as it is no unusual occurrence in that section. It was not until Albert failed to return to the house for dinner that notice was taken of his absence and a search was started. His body was found about 1:30.

The coroner was told that Albert had not been feeling well for some four or five weeks past.

Surviving are the mother, Mrs. Clarence Lasher; one brother, Percy, and a sister, Mrs. August Goetsert, of Brooklyn. Funeral services will be held in the Lasher Funeral Parlor, Saugerties, Saturday at 2:30 p. m. Interment will be in the Katsbaan Cemetery.

Broughton Elected As Vice President

Ross Brown, Jr., of Newburgh, was installed as president of the Hudson River Central Baptist Bible School and Young People's Association at its fourteenth annual convention held in Walden Tuesday. He succeeded James Mosher, Jr., of Beacon.

Forward With Christ was the general theme of the all-day session at the Baptist Church and the evening meeting at Bradley Assembly Hall. About 150 persons were present, including delegates from Walden, Cold Spring, Middletown, Newburgh, Nanuet, Beacon, Kingston, Port Jervis, Ossining, Phoenixia and Shokan.

Other new officers include Russell H. Broughton of Kingston, vice president; Miss Julia Fuller of Walden, corresponding secretary; Miss Marion Bradley of Newburgh, recording secretary; James Mosher, Jr., of Beacon, chairman of the Young People's division; Dr. L. M. Stevenson of Cold Spring, chairman of Adult divisions; and Mrs. Ira Codrington of Middletown, chairman of Sunday School division. Mrs. Lillian Vandervoort of Middletown will continue as treasurer, Edwin L. Martin of Middletown, director of friendly guidance; Claude Baker of Cornwall, financial secretary; and Mrs. Harry Klotz of Kingston, registrar and reporter. Advisors are Mr. Martin, the Rev. Raymond Edwards of Ossining, the Rev. Glen G. Vought of Nyack, the Rev. Milton Harris of Lows Corners and the Rev. Clarence E. Brown of Kingston.

Work Resumed at Flint.

Flint, Mich., May 13 (AP)—Workers trooped back to jobs in Fisher Body Plant No. 2 today to start the regular day shift and reduce by one-third the number of strike-closed General Motors Corporation plants. Resumption of work at the body plant, an office spokesman said, presumably would lead to the reopening of the Chevrolet Motor Company's assembly line here which was closed yesterday when Fisher workers sat down. Last night they voted to resume work pending a wage conference with the management.

150 Words on Coronation.

Moscow, May 13 (AP)—Russians learned today of the coronation of King George VI in London through a brief dispatch of 150 words in Pravda, the only newspaper printed on the day following a free day, or day of rest. The preliminary arrangements for the event were unmentioned in the Soviet press except for the departure of the Russian delegation headed by Maxim Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs.

Action for Goods Sold and Delivered

Jurors not engaged on the case now being tried in supreme court were excused this morning by Justice Russell until 11 o'clock Monday morning, when the May term will be resumed.

A settlement was announced in No. 207, the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corp. vs. Joseph Dirago and another, an action on contract, N. H. Rosenden for plaintiff and Michael Nardone for defendant.

By agreement the complaint in an assault action brought by Morris Miller against Universal Credit Company and another was discontinued as against the Credit Company. Arthur B. Ewig, who appeared for plaintiff, said the other party had not answered. Goodman & Werner appeared for the defendant company. The action was dismissed without costs.

Justice Russell announced that any inquests which were on the inquest calendar might be tried at any time by counsel during the term at either the opening of court at 10 o'clock or at 2 o'clock. He cautioned counsel not to wait until the last minute of the last day of the term to take such inquests, but requested that attorneys bring in their clients as soon as possible in inquest cases.

An inquest was taken in No. 147, William T. Reynolds & Co., Inc., of Poughkeepsie against Samuel Levinson and George Rogers, doing business as Levinson's Bakery. Arthur B. Ewig appeared for the plaintiff. There was no defense and the action was tried before the court without a jury. Findings and an order will be submitted. The plaintiff sued to recover a balance of $571.39 and interest due from transactions done during the time the partnership was in operation in this city.

An action for goods sold and delivered was then taken up. Canfield Supply Company of Kingston, as assignee on an account, against William M. Peck of Pine Plains sued to recover a balance due on a bill which plaintiff claims was contracted through the installation of an oil burner in the Peck home in 1933. Plaintiff alleges that Mr. Peck contracted for the installation of an oil burner, boiler and 1,000 gallon tank in his home to be connected to the existing heating system. This work was done by George W. Humphries of Pine Plains, plumbing contractor. In addition plaintiff claims that the oil burned was paid for but that the work for installation was never paid for and that there was also extra work done from time to time for which the contractor was never paid. In 1936 Humphries assigned his claim to Canfield Supply Company and that company is now suing. Plaintiff admits one payment of $50 on account but claims $550 still due.

Dorr Monroe appears for plaintiff and Jonathan Holdeen appears for the defendant. The defendant claims that the oil burner was bought and installed and $650 was paid before the work was done. After being installed the oil burning unit failed to give satisfaction and in six months the defendant demanded the burner removed and his money back. He claims the unit was not removed and he refuses to pay.

Merrill, Lambie Get Bad News Today

Southport, Eng., May 13 (AP)—Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie got more bad news today while voyaging crosswinds delayed their return Atlantic flight.

The company which previously had agreed to supply them with motion pictures of King George's coronation, to be flown to the United States, changed its mind, Merrill said. They will carry only still pictures of the coronation, he said and thus they will make a good deal less money than they had hoped.

Previously he had partly explained their delay in departure by saying the films were being brought from London by automobile.

THE DEMOCRATIC WAY

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's
farewells have a melancholy note,
but they are also full of good advice to his fellow Britons. The other day, in a debate in Parliament on the labor situation, he made a strong plea for democracy and its preservation not politically alone but also in industry. The Prime Minister seems to have been saddened by that London bus strike which complicated things for coronation crowds. But he did not urge ending the strike as a patriotic gesture. He urged only a democratic solution of the problems from which the strike arose.

Autocracy is an easy form of government, said Mr. Baldwin, because it makes thinking unnecessary.
The top man or group does all the thinking for every citizen. There are times when that seems to save a lot of trouble. Democracy, on the other hand, is a most difficult form of government, "because every individual has to do his own thinking." Perhaps that is why democracy has made so many mistakes and fallen short of well-being for all its citizens.
Yet democracy looks to most Americans, and to most Englishmen, like the only lasting way to develop harmonious industrial relations and to solve other modern social and economic problems.

BIOGRAPHY OR SLANDER?

Freedom of the press is upheld in Canada. Or freedom of slander, if you happen to look at it that way.
The matter at issue is "Coronation Commentary," the new book with the startlingly frank—some say illustrated—chapters about the Duke of Windsor, written by Geoffrey Dennis.
The author's good faith has been questioned because previously, when Edward was sitting on top of the world, Dennis wrote a eulogy of him.
Also because a great many people,
while granting Edward's faults, cannot believe that he is such a contemptible cad as Dennis now represents him. That "Commentary" was promptly suppressed in England
when Edward indignantly threatened to sue the author for libel. The Dominion authorities, however, allow it to go on sale.

This is a part of the curiously contradictory attitude of Canadians toward Edward. They idolized him when he was Crown Prince, took pride in his having a ranch in Canada, and supported him enthusiastically
as king. But they dropped him
—or at least their government did
—like a hot potato the moment the conflict between King and Cabinet arose in London over the Simpson matter.

The book is on sale, too, in the United States. But here the case is somewhat different. It will be interesting to see what action Edward takes on this side of the water. He might bring a big libel suit in both countries. That would throw the whole question of his character and record wide open.

FACTORY FARMING.

Factory methods are breaking over into agriculture, poultry raising and bee keeping. Significant developments in this regard are revealed in railway express reports of heavy spring shipments of vegetable plants, hatching eggs, baby chicks and live
bees.

Instead of planting their own seed, setting their own hens, and so on, many farmers, market gardeners,
and others now order from large producers in the south. Among vegetables, tomato plants are most in demand. A larger, finer yield results from setting out healthy young plants than from starting your own from seeds in hotbeds. Potato plants are handled in this way, too. In the principal strawberry growing centers, winters are often severe enough to kill many plants; so they, too, are ordered from southern growers.

Canada is a great honey-producing country, but bees are easily winter-killed there. Replenishment of insects every season is accomplished
simply by ordering from bee-raisers

in the southern part of the United States. The poultry business is even more specialized. There are producers who go to the hatcheries
for young chicks. The hatcheries, in their turn, have gone to egg-farmers for the eggs. Both chickens and turkeys, grown quickly for the markets, get their start this way.
It all means more profitable agricultural enterprises for the south, more business for the railroads, and better crops and profits for the final growers.

LABOR GAINS

This has been a good year for American labor, thus far. There were a few more wage-earners employed in March, in the 25 major manufacturing industries, than in 1929, and the proportion has grown since March. The average working week is now about 14 per cent shorter than it was in 1929, and the average weekly earnings, though less in dollars, will buy nearly 10 per cent more than they did before the depression.

This is good as far as it goes—
good for the workers who have jobs.
But life marches on. The unpleasant and disquieting factor is that there are many more people of working age now than there were before the depression, so that the unemployment is still, with all our recovery, far greater than it was eight years ago. There will be no complete recovery until there are at least as large a percentage of our people employed as in 1929. Indeed, we ought to have jobs for a higher percentage than before, because millions of families have been impoverished by the long depression and, on the average, more people in the family need work.

Allergic to Words or Ideas

It has been known for a long time
that certain pollen, particularly rag-weed—is the definite cause of hay fever in those who are "sensitive" or "allergic" to ragweed pollen. Similarly it has been proven that certain substances can cause attacks of asthma and of eczema.

Later it was found that certain foods could cause head colds, asthma,
and eczema, and also abdominal symptoms such as vomiting, diarrhea, pain, belching of gas, and other symptoms. Cream, eggs, wheat, bread, and chocolate are considered
the most frequent offenders.
It will not cause much surprise
therefore when we are told that just as many of us are sensitive to pollen, food, dander from horses and cats, substances used in industry, causing us body symptoms—hay fever, asthma, eczema, intestinal upsets—so can we be "sensitive" or
"allergic" to words, ideas, materials,
or things which are symbols of emotional patterns and we become mentally or emotionally upset.

An editorial in the American Journal of Psychiatry tells us that in many cases these reactions we receive from words, ideas or situations include physical or body symptoms which we can actually observe or measure—increased pulse rate, blood pressure and temperature, but also psychic or mental symptoms out of all proportion to the stimulus or cause.

"We all know people who can and do discuss most subjects in a cool and reasonable manner, but who, on the mention of certain matters such as life insurance, Bolshevism, or mothers-in-law—emit a sudden flow of emotional heat without intellectual light, and frequently show such physical symptoms as dilation of the pupils and flushing of the face. In fact certain cases of paranoia—where the individual's personality is side-tracked from the affairs of everyday life into a system of life that suits or satisfies him—may be due to psychoallergy as this is called.

While this idea that words, ideas,
or situations may cause mental or emotional flareups, just as a red rag is supposed to do to a bull, is somewhat startling, nevertheless it is possible that many cases of emotional or mental upsets may be traced to the individual being sensitive or "allergic" to words, ideas, or situations about him.

MURDER
ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: A mysterious shot kills attractive Judge Blinshop on a bluff, stormy night at Farrington
Bluff, home of Michael's aunts.
Then a series of strange attacks
makes everyone in the marooned household jittery: Mike, the Skipper, his tall, tweedy younger aunt;
Aunt Martha, stout and prudish;
Coy Palmer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart; Higgins, the old butler; William, the chauffeur; Cook; Annie, the maid; even myself. As the second nerve-racking day dawns, the Skipper and I find the body of a gray-haired man, halfway down the bluff.

Chapter 24

An Inane Ghost

THERE was a tinkle of glass, and I caught M. Farrington as he capsized. Neither of the others moved.
"Oh," began Gay, repentant eyes on Michael's face; "oh—"
But we had no time for the sex motif just then.
"Come on, Mike!" I said curtly.
"Come, look after Aunt Martha, will you?"
Armed with a long coil of tow rope,
the servants were waiting in the hall.
From the side door, we made our way to the bluff. The body lay just as we had left it, the surf mounting steadily higher. There was no time to lose.

"Higgins, you're the lightest. Tie this rope around your waist. Can you tie a decent knot?"
"I don't know, sir." The old man's lips were gray.

I seized the rope and tied it around him. "We're going to lower you down," I said. "Then you untie the rope and put it around him this way.
There's no danger. Are you all right?"
"Yes, sir."

We lowered him slowly. The roar of the water was loud in our ears as we waited for his signal. It came, and we hauled. The ground was wet and slippery. There seemed considerable danger of all three of us tumbling to our own destruction before we could bring our gruesome burden within arm's reach. Between us, William and I managed the last stage of the job. In another two minutes, Higgins was back beside us, wet and trembling but uninjured.

He was staring as if hypnotized at the body, which he had rolled over on its back. Slowly my eyes followed his.
Except for the heavy white hair, the man lying at our feet might have been Michael Farrington! William knelt down beside the sodden heap.

"Dead, all right. Who is he?"
Whatever his name, that man was a Farrington. He had Michael's black brows, passionate mouth and chin—
Mike's slim hips and broad shoulders.
The dark eyes were now glassy and horrible, but they were like Michael's—and the Skipper's. With two servants in the midst of it, we had certainly uncovered a family skeleton. I was obliged to shove Mike violently to move him.

During that short journey back across the soggy lawn, a dozen wild thoughts were teeming in my head.
Who? That was uppermost. Michael's brother? A cousin? An uncle? Who?
Had Mike known him—his whereabouts—his motives? Mike had been shielding someone. There was no doubt of that. But I would have sworn that the look he bent on that pathetic
ment.

Had the Skipper known? She had been hiding something, too. She had suspected something. She had rushed from the house as if she knew just where to go. She—Great God! Was this bundle in our arms the reason for the sudden change in the Skipper?
Had this man's hand moved Jude's body? Had he been lying, alert, waiting, family that sheet until—

Family Scene Coming Up
"WHERE to, sir?" We were at the side entrance.

I looked at Michael, but his back offered no suggestions.
"The game room, William," I said.
We deposited our burden on the billiard table. Michael gave us no assistance. His mute vacant stare only intensified the already unbearable situation. To send the servants away would be to insure the rapid spreading of the news in all directions, but it was unthinkable to keep them there.
William's eyes were glowing with excitement, his cheeks flushed. Relieved,
I thought, relieved that it's over. But he'll talk—Lord how he'll talk!

"I'll get a cover for him, sir."
I turned to Higgins. The old man's lips were twitching so badly that I had grave misgivings for the fate of his false teeth. Higgins knew, then, whatever it was that Mike and I did not know, and the story was with him. In all the terrors of the last two nights he had not revealed it. I remembered the coffee cups rattling in his hand that first night, and Michael chirping, "Higgins, you don't look up to scratch."

"Will that be all, sir?" William. I could see was in a hurry to get out to the kitchen with news.

"Not quite, William. Keep your mouth shut. Understand? It will only get the women excited."

"Very good, sir."
It probably wouldn't work, but in any event there was nothing more I could do.

"All right," I said. And Michael and I were alone.
I have never in my life so heartily wished myself elsewhere. The fuss and fury were over and I was unconfortably aware of the fact that I was stranded in another man's house where a terrific family scene was impending. Worse than that, my nose was irretrievably thrust into the middle of it.

"Well, Mike," I said clumsily, laying
an awkward hand on his shoulder.
"What can I do?"

For a moment I thought that he wasn't going to answer. Then, "Get the Skipper. Never mind the rest of them. I've got to talk to the Skipper."

I left him standing there, staring into space. If the Skipper had joined the others, how could I possibly get her without bringing the whole horrible nest down on his ears? But the Skipper had not joined the others.
She was sitting in the very spot where I had left her, her head in her hands,
and she didn't seem to hear me come
in. It took an effort to cross the room.
"Skipper," I said as gently as I could, "will you come into the game room?"

She raised her head and looked at me. I would have given something for a poker face.

"Yes," she said at length very slowly. "Yes, of course."

At the game room door I tried to get away, but she hung onto me. "Come in here, too, Jim—if you don't mind."

But He Died Years Ago!

I DID mind very much. But I did as I was told, closing the door carefully after me. Mike came toward her but she ignored him and stepped to the table, where she stood a long time staring at the dead face. I turned to the window blindly. The silence was beastly. I counted broken branches and small sticks scattered on the lawn, dully noted several pieces of brick missing on the terrace, observed that the surf was already washing above the bluff in a fine gray mist.

"Skipper," said Michael's voice. "Is —this Norman Farrington?"

Michael's father! But he had died when Michael was a baby!

"Yes."
Silence, a thick blanket of it. Was the hammering of rip actually in the room, or was all that noise in my own head?

"He was insane?"
"Yes."

I thought, "I could open this window and get out of here! Out of here—"

That queer, flat voice again. "How long?"

"The other dull voice. 'Ever since you were a baby.'"

I slipped the spring lock on the French window and started to step onto the terrace. A deep cry stopped me.

"Michael! Stop! You must listen to me! You must—"

My eyes were dragged back to that room, to Michael wrenching himself from her grasp.

Automatically I closed the window
as the door slammed behind him.
"Jimmie," said the Skipper hoarsely,
"get him back here. I must talk to him."

I put an arm around her. "Better wait, Skipper," I said.

We both whirled at the opening of the door. It was only Higgins, bearing a covering for the body on the table.

Without a word he stepped to the table and performed his errand. Turning, he walked over to the Skipper.

"Don't fret, miss," he said. "It's better so," and was gone.

After a while I shook the Skipper
gently. "What do you want me to do?"

I said, "Shall I tell the others?"

Her sudden grip on my arm made me wince. "No! No! Wait until this rotten storm is over—and help coax."

"But won't they wonder?" I objected. "I told them—"

She was almost shouting. "I know what I'm doing!" Her voice fell.
"Sorry. You see, I particularly want to keep Martha from knowing this until—things are more normal. She was—very fond of Norman. Tell Gay anything you like, but keep the servants quiet, and leave Martha to me."

I opened my mouth to say that it would be pretty hard to fool M. Farrington after my announcement in the dining room, but something in the Skipper's face made me close it again.

After all, it was none of my business.
I could only hope that William would keep his word, and I could keep an eye on Mike.

"Lock both these doors, Jimmie,"
said the Skipper, "and then we'll
—well eat breakfast."

Breakfast! The word set my teeth on edge; and yet, crossing the room to do as I was told, I was aware of a hollow feeling in the region of my belt.

Gay and Mike clash in a bitter scrap, tomorrow.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Ever since the wholesale gang executions in which such assassins as Dopey
Benny Fein, Mad Dog Vincent
Coll, Kid Dropper, Dutch Schultz, Johnny Spanish, and others were wiped out—grim warfare which raged Manhattan for a decade—
crime in New York has undergone a curious metamorphosis.
True it is that the big chains are still operated along commercial lines, as witness Prosecutor Dewey's operations against the wholesale vice and restaurant
"protective" associations. Nevertheless a glimpse at the police dockets reveals that most recent homicides have been the result of depravity or personal vengeance.

THE Gedeon triple slaying is a case in point. Another is the hammer slaying of a young girl
violinist in a studio off Times Square. These are atrocities which have no commercial significance and should be comparatively simple for the police to clear up.

It was, technically, more difficult to oppose the big gangs, which operated behind a screen of expert legal talent, quick-fingered gunmen, and shrewd strategists. That is why they prospered for so many years, gaining a monopoly on the dozen major rackets.

What were these rackets? The "Shylock" racket was perhaps the most insidious—preying on petty wage earners and taking as much as 1,000 per cent on small loans.
The borrower either paid up or was shot.

OTHERS were: (2) the policy or numbers game, still flourishing but not nearly so affluently as previously; (3) the wholesale food market racket, which exacted tribute from trucking concerns; (4)
the narcotic market, organized as systematically as was bootlegging
during prohibition; (5) floating dice and card games, in which the big gamblers (such as Arnold Rothstein) wandered from hotel to penthouse, wagging thousands on the turn of a card; (6) the dock racket; (7) the "protection" shake-down (which Dewey has so recently dealt a body blow); (8) vice,
with a chain system of houses and
"road shows" with girl entertainers—also recently stymied by Prosecutor Dewey.

There are other and lesser rackets, but these are the major ones which permitted gangdom to thrive for so many years and which filled the newspapers daily with records of gang treachery and slayings.

For the moment, at least, the racketeer barons aren't exciting much attention. But there's still plenty of crime. The only difference seems to be in the motive.

James Gleason plays roles of uneducated, race-track touts, but in real life he is an author.

Guard and Tide Locks

There were two locks at Eddyville
and the job of lock-tender was regulated much the same as many political positions are today, with each new scow boss placing his friends on the payroll as locktenders. One of the Eddyville locktenders was Ike Carney, as was also Steve Van Aken, Charles DeGraff, who is still a resident of the tidewater terminus.

The guard lock was used mostly to guard against the frequent freshets which would affect the canal, while the tide lock lowered
the boats to the tide level. The weighing of canal boats was accomplished by floating the boat into a lock and draining the water until the barge rested on the wooden scales placed at the bottom of the lock, which was so sensitive that the accurate weight of a person could be taken. Each boat was weighed without cargo as it started up the canal, and weighed again on its return trip from Honesdale, so that a fairly accurate check was possible
on the cargo it carried.

Paymaster's Boat

A small steamer called the "Minnie" was used by the paymaster for his regular trip on the canal, and five days were required to travel to Honesdale and back with the payroll.
After a time, the Delaware and Hudson Company built several steamboats that were a bit faster than the old "Minnie" and so the pay-boat was used for carrying passengers on the canal as far as Creek Locks. Another steamboat called the "Annet" was sent from Rondout to Eddyville
and there they would be transferred to the "Minnie" for the remainder of the trip to Creek Locks.

Before the advent of the "Minnie"
as the paymaster's boat, that official used to make his trips along the canal with a team of horses and a carriage.

The residents of Eddyville were employed chiefly in work pertaining to the canal. Some worked in the canal stores, others were on the barges, and still others worked for John Snyder and John J. Baisden, both of whom were boat builders.

During the winter season the water was drawn off the basin located at the end of the canal and the beginning of the Rondout creek, and sometimes as many as 30 canal boats would be stored there. Other barges were drawn up at the Sunflower dock
in Slighsburg. Usually the season closed in November and opened about the first part of April, but the exact time depended on the winter conditions along the canal.

Cost of Barge

Each boat operating on the canal was required to have a permit, and it cost the company from six to seven hundred dollars to construct a canal barge. The canals paid the company about $1,700 for each boat,
but the only way they were allowed to purchase the boat was to pay so much down and then pay a certain amount on each cargo of anthracite,
that is so much per ton for each load
brought from Honesdale.

The lock-tenders increased their revenue by selling supplies to the canalmen who were for the most part a very decent class of people with no indication of the canals spirit that is so often evident on such a project. Stores were located all along the way, one called Gumaer's being famous for the home-made pies that could be purchased there. Another well-known location on the route was Fiddler's Elbow, the shortest turn on the canal, and many a yarn

was spun concerning the difficulty encountered in negotiating this place.

Method of Passing

Young boys were employed to ride
the horses or mules on the towpath.
Each boat had a team that towed the boat by means of a rope attached about a third of the way back on the side. When two boats would meet, the team of the barge carrying a cargo would stop, allowing the tow rope to sink below the surface of the water, and the light or empty barge
would pass over the loaded boat's rope and proceed on its way.

Small barges called tool-boats were kept at specified distances along the canal for the purpose of effecting the necessary repairs, and a crew of men,
similar to the arrangement of railroads called section men, were on duty to keep the canal in repair.

There were a group of boats plying
the canal called "Hawley boats," probably named after the Pennsylvania town on the canal. These barges hauled all kinds of merchandise and the towns from the Eddyville terminus were made up at New Salem, across the creek from the location of the company's terminus, and brought down the Rondout to Port Ewen where the cargoes were transferred to Hudson river steamboats and barges.

The wage rate for work on the canal was about $1.20 per day which was considered a good rate for the living conditions of that period.

During the winter season additional teachers were required in the schools to teach the canalers' chilren, and a great many of them came into Rondout and attended what is now known as School No. 4 in the Ponckhocke section.

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, May 12—Mr. and Mrs.
Roy Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph
Van Vliet and Mrs. William Horn and daughter, Miss Gloria, of Poughkeepsie, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hees of Putnam spent Sunday afternoon with William Gorseline of Tabasco and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hornbeck of this place.

A special meeting of the residing school board will be held at the schoolhouse Friday evening.

Miss Helen Hornbeck returned home Sunday after spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Florence Wykoff of Tabasco, who has been ill at her home with tonsillitis. It is gratifying news to her many friends to know she is now able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoff and daughter, Miss Rosemary, of Napanoch, were pleasant callers on relatives in this place Friday evening.

Harold Keator of Tabasco has recently saved a summer's supply of firewood for Homer Hornbeck.

Mrs. Phoebe Krom, who is ill at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith of Ellenville, remains about the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Terwilliger of Newburgh spent Friday afternoon at the Hornbeck home.

Mrs. J. Hornbeck spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Harold Keator of Tabasco, who was ill at her home threatened with pneumonia. Dr. D. O. Williams of Wawa-sing was the attending physician.

On Sunday morning at 10 o'clock services will be held in the Temple. Rabbi Bloom will speak on the subject, "And a Little Child shall lead you."

On Monday evening the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah will hold its monthly meeting in the social hall of the Temple.

On Wednesday evening, May 19, the Palmidim will meet at the Rabbi's residence.

ZENA

Zena, May 13—At the meeting of the Zena Country Club on Friday evening it was decided to postpone the May birthday party because so much time will have to be devoted to rehearsals of the play "It Beats the Dutch" which the club will present at the Woodstock sesquicentennial.

The Misses Carrie and Nellie Carnright and Arthur Snyder of Newburgh were visitors at the Carnright home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Phelan and Mrs. Thomas Deegan of Kingston and Charles Ryan of Elmsmere were guests at Lynwood, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lynch, last week.

Harold Carle with his mother, Mrs. Ella Carle, of Kingston, visited in Zena on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Carnright entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lynch at their "Colonial Acres" home in High Woods on Tuesday evening.

Frank Tichenor and Miss Anne Reinhold of Staten Island spent the week-end at Mr. Tichenor's farm on Chestnut Hill.

Mrs. Josephine Whitney and daughter, Elizabeth, have opened "The Zena Grist Mill," their home here for the summer.

Miss Helen Long of Lewbeach spent the week-end at the home of her parents here.

Miss Madeline Briggs and Mr. and Mrs. Chevis Wray and daughter, Nancy, of New York city, motored up from New York city on Saturday.

Miss Briggs, Mrs. Wray and Nancy

will spend the week at Miss Briggs' cottage.

Miss Dorothy Allen, former teacher at the Zena School and now of Hempstead, L. I., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Carnright during the week-end.

Mrs. Adeline Dowell, who recently returned after spending the winter in the south, has rented Fred Thaler's bungalow.

The Misses Florence Hill and Lois Carnright motored to Gloversville on Saturday to visit Miss Hill's parents there, returning on Sunday in Miss Hill's new car.

Palmer Carnright motored Dr. Louise Hurrell to New Jersey on Saturday to visit her brother, who has been very ill.

Advice to the dust bowl victims: Go farther, west, old man, and catch up with the country.

TUSCULUM REGISTRAR IN KINGSTON MONDAY.

Greenville, Tenn.—J. W. Faulds, registrar of Tusculum College, located here, will be in Kingston Monday, May 17, at which time he will be available in an advisory capacity to young people planning college courses.

Mr. Faulds has had wide experience in advising young people in the planning of their courses and will be glad to discuss any questions concerning higher education and requirements for specific vocations.

Tusculum College, from which Mr. Faulds received his A. B. degree is the oldest chartered college west of the Alleghenies and south of the Ohio river, in historic East Tennessee.

Shirt Factory

Rowland stated that this privilege has been respected by the employees and has never been abused.

The speaker went into a briefly detailed account of shirt manufacturing. It became clear that the shirt business is a specialized and highly skilled industry. The piece goods are shipped to the plant in wooden or veneer cases by railroad or motor truck from mills in New England. In the course of a year 5,000,000 yards of material are handled by the Fuller piece goods department. In preparing a sample line of shirts, the mills submit swatches of the different patterns from which the best sellers are selected. These are made up into the different styles demanded by the trade. The Fuller Company carries about a different models of shirts.

The cutting room is one of the most specialized branches of the trade. The cutting is done on a group of maple or pine blocks, five inches thick and eight feet long. Fifteen of these blocks makes up a cutting table. Goods are spread on the board to a thickness of 48 to 60 ply depending on the nature of the material. The cutting is done completely by hand around wooden patterns, bound with brass of steel to protect the wood. All shirt cutters are skilled workmen and Kingston shirt factories have some of the best shirt cutters in the industry. There are 28 cut parts to each shirt and each day over 231,600 parts are cut and handled in the Fuller cutting department.

"In walking or driving down Pine Grove avenue and taking a look at the Fuller plant, very few people in Kingston have any conception of the number of employees within the building as well as the business activity going on," said Mr. Rowland. "To assemble these 231,600 cut parts each day calls for many skilled hands and modern, high speed sewing machines. Naturally in an old established business, obsolescence will take its toll. Between the years 1924 and 1928 the Fullers spent over $100,000 in installing modern machines and equipment to increase efficiency, lower operating costs and increased volume. Since that time we have been making improvements each year until today we have a thoroughly modern and up to date plant.

"All the sewing machines are driven by individual motors or in groups of 12 machines on one line shafts with direct drive motors. These machines include the single needle machine with an output of 3,200 stitches per minute, the special two needle machines which make as high as 4,200 stitches per minute and the button hole machine. An operator on this machine will make as many as 7,500 button holes per eight hour day. Sewing on buttons is another interesting operation. Last year our button sewing operators sewed on over 10,800,000 buttons.

"The method of shirt pressing," said the speaker, "is still very similar to what it was years ago. After spreading the completed shirt on the ironing table it is sprayed and then desired sized."

"In the boxing and shipping department the shirts are sorted as to size, color, sleeve length, etc., usually three shirts to the box. Formerly part of our output was shipped from Kingston and part was shipped from New York city. But now all shipments are made from Kingston. We ship shirts to every state in the union as well as Hawaii, the Philippines and Central America."

Mr. Rowland also explained that Trubenzling was one of the most important developments in shirt manufacturing. This method, called fusing, created the non-wilt collar and the speaker said that the Trubenzling first in the state to get an O. K. from the state labor board. The speaker also said that the shirt with the soft collar attached revolutionized the shirt industry in the year 1916. Prior to that time most shirts were made with the neck band and unattached collar but today 90 per cent of the shirt business is done with soft collar attached shirts.

The speaker was introduced to the club by Samuel Watts of the Rotary program committee and William Rodell of the American Legion was a guest at the meeting.

STATE OF NEW YORK COUNTY OF ULSTER

COURT: COUNTY OF ULSTER

FITZGERALD for the discharge of a certain mortgage of record.

On reading and filing the petition of James Fitzgerald verified the 12th day of May, 1937, from which it appears that a certain mortgage of record in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster, New York, and Charles G. Cooper, her husband, to Theodore Westbrook dated January 22nd, 1934 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on January 23rd, 1934 in Liber 165 of Mortgages, May 1934 to secure the payment of the sum of $200.00 and interest and which mortgage is described in the petition, which said mortgage is due and payable on May 1st, 1937, and that the said mortgage is paid in full and that the said mortgage should be discharged and the same should be discharged of record, and

Now, on motion of the petitioner, J. Cook, Attorney for the petitioner, it is ORDERED, that all persons interested in the said mortgage be and they hereby are required to show cause at a term of Court to be held at the County of Ulster, New York, in the City of Kingston, on the 26th day of May, 1937, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day or as why such mortgage should not be discharged of record, and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that service of this order on James Fitzgerald on or before the 20th day of May, 1937, shall be sufficient service thereof, and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that the order shall be served upon the person interested in said mortgage by publication thereof in a newspaper published in the County of Ulster, New York, to wit: Kingston, on the 26th day of May, 1937, and on May 20th, 1937, respectively.

Dated, May 12th, 1937.

FREDERICK G. TRAVER
County Judge, Ulster County

STATE OF NEW YORK SUPREME COURT: ULSTER COUNTY

POUGHKEEPSIE KAYING BANK, Plaintiff, against WILLARD D. ROCKEFELLER, et al., Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly granted in the above entitled action and entered in the above County Clerk's Office on the 2nd day of April, 1937, in obedience to the said judgment, the undersigned referee in said action, will sell at public auction in the County of Ulster, New York, City of Kingston, on the 26th day of May, 1937, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, the premises described in said judgment as follows, to wit:

ALL that certain piece of land, together with the dwelling house, barn and other buildings thereon, known as being in the Township of Esopus, County of Ulster and State of New York, and BEGINNING at a point in the Kingston-Highland Highway formed by the junction boundary fence of the end of the western Estate and the southern end of the western boundary fence of the property of E. Recent Activities At Normal School

New Paltz, May 13.—C. L. Lucas, M. A., L. T. one of the outstanding Indian Christian leaders of South India, spoke in chapel on Tuesday, May 11. He is spending two months in the United States previous to attending the World Conference at Edinburgh and Oxford this summer where he is official delegate for the South India United Church. Dr. Hermann Cooper, assistant commissioner for Teacher Education and Certification in New York state will visit New Paltz Normal School Monday, May 24, to review the operation of the new curriculum under which the present seniors will be the first class to graduate, while at the school Dr. Cooper will informally question students and faculty, sit in on classes, and in general gain a first hand knowledge of the working aspect of the new curriculum.

Agonian Sorority entertained the Delphic Fraternity at a lollypop party at the sorority house last Monday evening.

Maida Sand and Ralph Buchanan of New Paltz were married last Saturday morning.

Ruth Sussman spent the week-end at Baltimore.

Phyllis Falka and Charlotte Van Alstyne spent the past week-end at their sorority house the Arctura.

Oliver Springer, Edith Smith, Katherine Ross, Eva Lund, Margaret Lemon, and Mary Fleming spent the week-end at their sorority house the Argonaut.

Sally Doremus, president of the Clifton Sorority, represented the sorority at the annual alumnae reunion in New York on Saturday. The group attended the performance of "The Show Is On," after which there was a business meeting and dinner at the Hotel Lexington.

Dr. Lawrence H. Vandenberg presided over chapel on Tuesday, which opened with a solo, "I Dream of Jeanie With The Light Brown Hair," sung by Rosanna Atkins, a student in the practice school. She was accompanied at the piano by Vera Braun. Frank James of the Gardiner school, accompanied by Miss Harding, sang "Annie Laurie" and "Sing While You're Happy." Dr. Vandenberg then spoke briefly on the honor society, Sigma Pi Sigma, and welcomed the new members of this organization. Evelyn Roosa elaborated on Dr. Vandenberg's speech and introduced Shirley Pearson, who spoke on the activities of the organization. Joseph Smith, grand president of the four chapters of Sigma Pi Sigma, awarded the certificates of admission to various members and told of the plans to be discussed at convocation for the formation of chapters of the Normal schools of the state. Dr. Vandenberg made several other announcements, one being after a careful consideration of the nine possible candidates for valedictorian of the class of 1937, namely Florence Brown, Lea Brown, Xenia Colyer, Robert Corlies, Margery Hornig, Grace Myers, Shirley Pearson, Evelyn Roosa and Joseph Smith that Shirley Pearson had been selected. This selection was made on scholastic standing, teaching ability and extra-curricular participation.

Ann Callahan, Margery Hornig, Elsie Wheat and Mary Wygel have been admitted to Sigma Pi Sigma, honor society, the requirement for admission to this organization is the attainment of a "B" average, in any six quarters or any three semesters of work at New Paltz Normal.

Florence Osling and Ann Crispell were guests at the banquet last Friday.

Ex-Actress Indicted

Mrs. Betty Randolph Swinhart, former actress, shown in the New York district attorney's office, was indicted on a charge of extorting $500 from Louis Bamberger, former broker.

"Due Process of Law" in Use as Far Back as 1325

The phrase "due process of law," referring to the regular course of legal or judicial proceedings in any case, appears in the Fifth and Fourteenth amendments to the federal Constitution. In the first of these: "no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law," the limitation is on acts of congress. In the other amendment: "no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law," the limitation is on the laws of the states.

According to Professor Munro's "The Government of the United States," the phrase is an approximate equivalent of "by the law of the land," contained in Magna Charta.

Daniel Webster's definition of due process was "the process of law which hears before it condemns, which proceeds upon enquiry and renders judgment only after trial. The meaning is that every citizen shall hold his life, liberty, property and immunities under the protection of the general rules which govern society."

The Supreme court in its interpretation of this phrase has, according to Munro, "assumed a considerable censorship over the economic legislation of congress." The Oxford dictionary quotes the use of the phrase "process of law" as early as the year 1325. — Detroit News.

A remnant of the fort which George Washington asked the British to build 173 years ago to protect the western frontier still stands in the shadows of Pittsburgh, Pa., skyscrapers.

RIFTON

Rifton, May 13. Mrs. Chris Joyce of New York city is in the village preparing her house for summer occupancy.

Spending the week-end at the home of the Misses Schikler were the following: Their father, Charles Schikler, their sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Clements and daughter Barbara, their uncle, Robert Tresner, and cousin, Fred Frankowitz, all of New York city.

The people of the village and particularly the children of the 4-11 clubs were greatly pleased when they learned that one of their plays named "Uncle Bob's Ride" was chosen as the winning play for the county.

Julius Eckert spent the week-end at his home returning to his position at Lake Mohonk Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jacoby became the parents of a baby girl on Tuesday, May 11.

Pat Condon was called away to Boston to attend the funeral of one of his immediate relatives.

Miss Rose Friedman of New York city spent several days in the village last week.

Robert Winkky has received his appointment to the State Troopers and leaves this Saturday to take up his new duties.

Mrs. Sylvia Morrow of Worcester, Mass. and Mrs. Henry King of Poughkeepsie were called to the home of their sister, Mrs. DeWitt Lewis, to attend the funeral of their father, George Schoonmaker on Sunday.

Clara Davis was called home from his position at Mohonk due to the death of his father-in-law, George Schoonmaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Selnick and son, of Jersey City and Mrs. Kaplan and Mrs. Mandel of Brooklyn were guests of their sister, Mrs. I. Pekar, for several days this week.

Next Sunday at the usual hour 3 p. m. the Rev. James T. Legg will conduct preaching services at the M. E. Church.

Services will also be held next Sunday at the Interdenominational Mission at 3 p. m. Herbert Bedell of Brooklyn, in charge.

The friends and neighbors of Mrs. Ed Fradenburgh were sorry to learn of the great loss she sustained in the death of her mother last Friday.

It's Our Family's Whiskey, Neighbor

A LITTLE OLD-FASHIONED PLEASURE FOR THE OLD TIMERS... Every once in a while, Tim Stiles trots that old talking machine up to our house and gets us to playing it. He'd sit all night listening, if he had his way!

Our Family's Whiskey brings you sweet memories of the good old days!

Of all the folks making whiskey, I don't suppose there's a one that believes in the modern way of doing things more than us Wilkens. I mean to say the modern way of keeping everything just spic and span—and all that. But in other things, like good old Family Recipes, we got a feeling the grand old-fashioned way of doing things can't be beat.

Our family has been distilling since the year 1886—and this is our own Family's Recipe!

Congress, Spare Those Trees, Irate Blossom Lovers Shriek

TO BE OR NOT TO BE: That is the question facing a proposed Jefferson memorial and Washington's cherry blossoms.

By SIGRID ARNE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Washington—Congress was rocking along happily in a nice, dignified fight over economy when it stuck its hand, all unsuspectingly, into a hornet's nest over the fate of Washington's cherry blossoms.

It happened when the Thomas Jefferson memorial commission came out of some deep thought and announced the tidal basin was the right place to remember Jefferson for $3,000,000's worth.

The three million would pay for a marble temple on the basin. But what about the cherry trees that now stand around the basin? Oh, they would have to be removed.

Commission Chairman John J. Boylan of New York broke the news on congress, which took it quietly. But the next day the town woke up at the angry buzzing of such hornets as flower lovers, hotel men, architects, landscape gardeners, et al.

They'll Take Blossoms
As between marble and cherry blossoms, they'd take the blossoms. There were demands for a hearing. The house library committee, headed by Representative Kent Keller of Illinois opened its doors. Protests poured in by mail and wire.

Washington's hotel men turned downright undiplomatic and told the congressional committee to its face that the cherry blossoms are Washington's No. 1 drawing card for tourists.

Boylan remains disapproving over the whole rumpus. He's convinced the cherry trees are not so much.

Secretary Counts 'Em
"Why, they only live about 25 years," he says. "This memorial would go down through the ages. Look. When Japan sent us those trees there were 4,000. Now there's only 564."

Boylan really knows. He sent his secretary to hand-count the trees. It was raining, but she returned wet and triumphant.

Plenty of suggestions were made that the building should be useful.

"What?" said Boylan. "Like an auditorium? First thing you know they'd be selling Thomas Jefferson peanuts at the doors."

A Bit of Engineering
The fight includes other annoying elements. Boylan says he's been yearning for a Jefferson memorial the whole 16 years he's been in congress. But he didn't get very far while the Republicans were in the saddle. Now the Democrats are.

So he begged a resolution in June, 1934, setting up the commission to study the problem, giving it the right to spend $3,000,000, to choose the design and name the architect.

The commission chose John Russell Pope of New York, who is very much "of Washington," now the fight is on.

The Pope design calls for a temple jutting out into the tidal basin's waves. That would necessitate pile driving, some changing of traffic lanes, some digging of more basin. Engineers have testified the whole plan might cost close to $9,000,000.

Still a Third Hurdle
Congress already has voted $15,000 to get the plan started. Another $500,000 was due in the second deficiency bill, but didn't get in.

Then Representative Allen T. Treadway of Massachusetts rose with the first seemingly successful counter attack. He introduced an amendment prohibiting the commission from building at the tidal basin. His amendment has been reported favorably out of committee.

But there is still the third deficiency bill to hurdle. That may include that $500,000 to start the memorial.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Meanderings and meditations: A gray-haired, tattered and torn colored man leading a goat along lower Broadway... and pedestrians in collisions because of turned heads... Windows of steamship agencies decorated with cruise advertisements... Busy custom house counters where pier pass applications are made out... Bootblacks hustling for business in Battery park... Old salts, sprawling on benches and gazing wistfully out to sea... The sun flashing on the red brick buildings of Ellis island... The Statue of Liberty a great green lady standing guard over the harbor... The funny little Governor's island ferry nosing out into East river traffic... A little tug throwing spray high as it rushes past the lower end of Manhattan... Those rope fenders on the bows of tugs make them look like kin of the walrus... The barge office, which, as viewed from the bay, resembles an immense fire house... The dark Ellis island ferry pulling into its slip... An odor of salt water and rotting wood.

Traffic disappearing into the cavernous depths of the Manhattan approach to the Brooklyn bridge... The cop on traffic duty on that post doesn't have any cinch... City Hall bootblacks alert for customers... Sparrows wrangling with pigeons over food provided by the kind-hearted... Bob Davis who bought my first novel... Now all he has to do is travel here and there... and write whatever he feels like... He used to stride up and down and shake his fist while suggesting plot changes... Many a writer now famous owes his start to him... City Hall reporters assembled on the front porch... If I could spot Barney Mullady would ask him what it's all about... A panhandler beating a hasty retreat at the sight of a cop... Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine going in for a call on the mayor.

A motor car with Philippine island license plates... the first I've spotted from that far away... Though the other day there was a car in Times Square with Polish plates... Burgess Meredith, who, when he isn't playing in "High Tor," is busy getting a 40-acre farm ready for spring planting... and when he has nothing else to do, he writes poetry... Stanley Walker, formerly a city editor, now editor of a woman's magazine... Dick Merrill who wants to fly to the coronation... Because he gets seasick when he's a liner passenger... A pallid Broadway keyhole columnist greeting a competitor with a grin... Maybe he thought of something mean to say about him... H. T. Webster, whose Caspar-Milquetoast has become an international figure... H. I. Phillips, who spends his summers in Connecticut and his winters in Florida.

The queer clumping of a milk wagon horse that has lost one of its rubber shoes... Rubber ash can help a lot in reducing noise in the Big-Town-on-the-Hudson... Katharine Cornell slipping into the Empire theater... A wild-eyed, bearded man plowing through Seventh avenue traffic... and holding an excited conversation with himself... A lot of self-talkers in New York... Said to get that way through loneliness... Deep-throated whistle blasts from a departing liner... Why did I read that West Indies cruise itinerary?

Magistrate Louis Brodsky, who recently fined a doorman $2 for calling a non-tipper names... and suggested that a 200-pounder should be doing real work instead of merely opening taxicab doors... Kay George, singer and dancer, who recently was given a screen test... As a comedienne... A window full of pocket lighters... If I don't hurry on I'll add another to an already large collection... Peddlers of spring blooms scattered all over town... A dime buys a lot of flowers nowadays... But they don't last long.

She Would: Gracie Allen notes that the Optimists' club in St. Louis is organizing a special service for absent-minded husbands, which will remind them when a wedding anniversary arrives. Now, observes Gracie, all they need is a service to remind some husbands that they are married.

Last Lines: Morton Downey believes that as far as Tin Pan Alley songs are concerned, "dissonance lends enchantment." And as for the influx of foreign stars it would seem that "accents make the heart grow fonder."

Museum Has Rare Chinese Animals

Philadelphia.—The Free Natural History museum here has the only habitat group in the world of the rare Sze-Chuan Takin of West China.

Takin, which are distinctly related to the Rocky Mountain goat, range the thick bamboo forests from the shadow of the Himalayas to the far western mountains of China. They might be described as a cross between a goat and a cow.

AS FAR AS FROM DENMARK TO GREECE

[In daily touch with every meat, poultry and dairy consuming city, town, and hamlet in the United States]

Fully two-thirds of the nation's livestock is raised west of the Mississippi. On the other hand, approximately two-thirds of the country's meat-eaters live east of the Mississippi.

So many hundreds of miles separate these two regions that many shipments of meats within the United States must travel as far as from Denmark to Greece, or from England to Egypt, before they reach the meat shops which retail them. Because most foreign countries are smaller in area than some of our states, their meat distribution problems are much less complex than ours.

Despite the far greater distance which must be traveled by the average pound of meat produced and consumed in America, its cost of distribution is exceedingly low. In 1936, growers of the livestock, and dairy and poultry products, bought by Swift & Company received 76 cents of the average wholesale dollar paid by retailers for meats and by-products, poultry, eggs, butter and cheese. The remainder of this average wholesale dollar was paid out by the company, as follows:

Labor, including wages and salaries	10 1/2 % cents
Transportation	3 1/2 % "
Supplies	4 1/2 % "
Interest, taxes, rents, refrigeration, pensions, depreciation and other such expenses	4 1/2 % "
Earnings	1 1/2 % "

So small were the company's earnings that they had no appreciable effect upon either meat or livestock prices.

Swift & Company

Over a period of years, Swift & Company's net profits from all sources have averaged only a fraction of a cent per pound

Port Ewen News

Port Ewen, May 13.—All members of the Priscilla Society are asked to come to the Methodist Episcopal Church kitchen at 9 o'clock Saturday morning to prepare the lunch for the Epworth League convention which will be held in the church Saturday.

A full attendance is requested at the official board meeting to be held in the M. E. Church house at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Simpson have returned to their homes here after spending the winter at their winter homes in DeLand, Fla.

The store of Alexander Crook is nearing completion and Mr. Crook expects to open it for business Saturday.

Members of the Parent-Teacher Association are reminded of the penny auction to be held at the regular meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Members of the M. E. Church and congregation will be welcome at the session of the Kingston District Epworth League convention, after seats have been provided for the delegates. 150 delegates attended the last convention.

J. P. Morgan III With Heart Attack

London, May 14 (AP)—J. P. Morgan, the New York financier, was disclosed today to have suffered a heart attack that kept him from attending the coronation ceremonies yesterday in Westminster Abbey.

Thomas W. Lamont, one of his New York partners, said Morgan was better and that he planned to return to the United States within two weeks.

"Mr. Morgan was prevented from attending the coronation as planned as his physician thought it more prudent for him to keep to the house following a slight recurrence of a heart difficulty he had a year ago," Lamont said.

"His condition is highly satisfactory."

Rest For Severe Program
London, May 13.—With an empire's homage still pulsing around the earth, Britain's newly-crowned King and Queen got little rest today before starting a long list of post-coronation engagements.

—These appearances, cementing the symbolic rule over 500,000,000 persons, were the first of the duties to which they were consecrated yesterday.

Except for a two-day break, 41-year-old George VI and his 37-year-old Scottish queen, Elizabeth, were scheduled daily for the rest of this month in fulfillment of the task to which they were dedicated in yesterday's medieval-modern pageantry of coronation.

The serious-faced young monarch, responding to the acclaim of his empire, said:

"The queen and I will always keep in our hearts the inspiration of this (coronation) day. May we ever be worthy of the good will which I am proud to think surrounds us at the outset of my reign."

That was in his empire broadcast from Buckingham palace last night while 60,000 wildly cheering subjects were jammed before the massive gates.

Grave Responsibility
"This is indeed a grave and constant responsibility," he declared, pledging that "we will, God helping us, faithfully discharge our trust."

He pointed to the commonwealth of nations bound together under the crown and noted solemnly "how much our friendship with each other and with all the nations on earth can help the cause of peace and progress."

The king-emperor and his wife must don full dress tonight for the second state banquet at Buckingham palace. Tomorrow they will dine again in state at the foreign office in Whitehall. Later they will lead off dancing at the court ball in the palace.

On Saturday they will hold a formal reception for departing foreign royalty and special envoys who came from the earth's corners to the coronation.

London's riotous gaiety continued almost unabated and thousands again thronged approaches to the royal residence following last night's tumultuous scenes in which the royal couple made four balcony appearances—the last just before midnight—while hoarse but still cheering subjects roared a vociferous refrain of "God Save The King... And the Queen, God Bless her!"

"Not Unduly Tired"
The throng remained before the palace, equally unmoved by rain and police until at last officers announced the royal couple would not come again to the balcony. From the palace it was announced that the King "was not unduly tired" by the arduous day.

The King did not plan to attend the coronation costume ball at Royal Albert Hall, Kensington, where thousands were to dance tonight away but he invited 40 guests to look down on the merry-makers from the crimson-hung royal box.

The heavy tasks assumed by the King and Queen since the December abdication of George's elder brother, Edward, were only beginning.

Tomorrow more than 2,000 dominion and colonial troops will parade in the palace garden for the monarch's inspection. He will pass along the ranks, shaking many of his stalwarts by the hand, presenting to all the coronation medals especially struck to commemorate their trip to London from the ends of the Empire.

Queen Elizabeth and the little Princesses, Elizabeth, the 11-year-old who someday may be the center of another such celebration, and six-year-old Margaret Rose, were expected to watch these ceremonies.

To Revive London Rites.
Next Wednesday the king and queen will drive in state again through cheering lanes of Londoners and visitors to the historic city Guild Hall for luncheon with the Lord Mayor, Sir George Broadbridge.

The ancient ceremony at Temple Bar—boundary of the old City of London—then will be revived for the first time in the new reign. The lord mayor will advance to the king's carriage and surrender to him the pearl sword, presented by Queen Elizabeth in 1571, as a sign that the city continues to pay homage to the crown.

That same evening the king will leave for Portsmouth to board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert in readiness for a mammoth naval review the next day.

The royal couple will drive through the city once more on May 24 to attend Empire Day services at St. Paul's Cathedral. The next day will be the prime minister's dinner party for their majesties at No. 10 Downing street and the following night another court ball at Buckingham palace will celebrate Queen Mary's birthday.

On the night of May 27 the royal couple will attend an evening reception for the London county council at County Hall, Westminster, and the next day there will be leave by the king in the state room at St. James' Place.

A hybrid "weeping elm" in Mingo county, W. Va., is believed by botanists to be the only one of its kind in North America.

Inscribed Stone from Blenheim Palace, England, for Woodstock

Woodstock, May 13.—The promised stone from the parent Woodstock in Oxford, England, to the 150-year-old "daughter" in Ulster, New York, soon is to be on its way. A letter to Mrs. Bruno Zimm from Woodstock, Oxford, states:

"I am directed by the Mayor and Corporation of Woodstock, England, to inform you that we are sending to you a stone from Blenheim Palace, Woodstock, to be built into the memorial which you are erecting (sic).

The size of this stone is two feet long and one foot high and six inches deep. A suitable inscription will be made on the stone which will be forwarded to you as quickly as possible. I will write further on the matter in due course.

Yours faithfully,
Stanley Henman, Town Clerk."

In Days of Queen Ann

Blenheim Palace from which the stone comes was built in the days of Queen Ann, as a reward to John Churchill, Duke of Marlborough, for winning the battle of Blenheim. In the grounds once stood another palace, that of Woodstock, a very famous house, the hunting palace of the kings of England. With Blenheim Palace are associated special memories. It was here that the names of Henry II, Henry III, Richard II, and Queen Elizabeth who was imprisoned there when a princess.

Since Blenheim Palace was begun in 1705 and was in process of building for about 25 years, it has sometimes been claimed that Johannes Hardenburgh, here in America, named the northern part of his patent after Marlborough's home, Woodstock.

Mrs. Zimm, commenting on this possibility, says, "There is a persistent legend connecting Hardenburgh with the Duke of Marlborough. The Hardenburgh descendants cling to this belief and claim that he fought at the Battle of Blenheim and was knighted as a consequence, receiving the enormous grant of land along the Hudson as a reward for his services. There is, however, considerable doubt as to the truth of this claim. There is evidence that Johannes Hardenburgh was not in England fighting for the king at that time, but in Ulster county, occupied and fruitful with an ever growing family. He might, though, have admired the Duke and named the new Woodstock in his honor. Another possibility is that the Livingstons gave the name because of the exceptionally good hunting here as in Woodstock, England. Perhaps some of the Livingstons came out here to hunt and had their "palace" at the corner—a log cabin." But it probably shall never be known just how the name did come.

In Way of Preparation.

George Neher, who is to impersonate in the sequel celebration, the early Dutch settler to whom the Indian sold land on which Woodstock village stands is to be escorted properly by eight other Dutchmen. Four of the party have signed up: Towar Boggs, John Hurt, David Anderson and Harry Dock. Four more are needed, and volunteers will be welcome.

John Faggi is one of the important Indians. Others in the tribe will be of they younger set, high school boys, and others. John also is doing his bit in the costume division, seeing to it that his tribe shall be accoutred properly.

The costume committee has moved its headquarters from the Gallery to Firemen's Hall, for the Art Gallery too has to be gotten ready for the big show, and is being repainted. Those taking part in any and all of the pageants are urged to come in promptly.

Mrs. George Layman and Mrs. Besse Cohn in charge of Children's Day of the celebration, last week visited all the schools in the township and talked to the children about their part in the celebration. Great interest and enthusiasm were shown. Mrs. Cohn reports that permission has been granted for the use of part of the golf course for the May Pole dance.

A booth on the pageant grounds has been requested by one of the state field workers for the Kingston Girl Scouts.

Miss Agnes Schleicher will have 12 children in her group of gnomes. She is training them in a special dance and is designing appropriate costumes.

Alexis Kosloff has offered the use of his large wardrobe of costumes. He is arranging for one of his star ballet pupils to do a toe dance in the 1884 scene.

Lord Carbury (locally known as Judson Phillips), English Governor of New York in 1706, is assembling a group of riders to act as military escort.

More churchgoers are needed and they ought to be easy to find in a village with five churches.

Miss Rhoda Chase has consented to act as art director for the program booklet. A partial list of the most distinguished men and women, who have from time to time visited Woodstock will be given in the booklet. If all the famous visitors were included, there would be no room for the program.

Ellenville Man Inherited $3,000

New York, May 12.—(Special)—Arthur Terwilliger, of 42 Market street, Ellenville, receives approximately $3,000 as his share of the estate left by an aunt, the late Cornelia Terwilliger, whose property was appraised today by the New York State Transfer Tax Department.

The remainder of the residue goes to John N. Terwilliger, of Bend, Ore., a nephew.

Miss Terwilliger died March 8, 1936, an estate which today's appraisal sets at $10,337 gross value and $8,314 net. Mrs. Marjory Tice is administratrix.

Employment Increase

Albany, N. Y., May 13 (AP)—Seasonal building demands enabled New York state to increase employment last month to within two per cent of the 1929 average despite labor troubles in both state and national industries. Factory payrolls, the labor department said, increased 1.2 per cent in April, but were approximately 12 per cent below the 1929 level. The cost of living in the state, however, was about 14 per cent below that of 1929, the report said.

Tops Will Be Down

Troy, N. Y., May 13 (AP)—Installation of "fish pole" type radio aerials on State Police patrol cars will enable troopers to cruise with car tops down this summer. When radios were installed three years ago enclosed aerials made it necessary to keep the tops up. Capt. John A. Keeley announced the change which will give the troopers greater visibility and, incidentally, more sun-tan.

Bindweed has infested about 2,000,000 acres of cultivated farm land west of the Mississippi river "so badly that the farms have been practically abandoned," says Leonard W. Kephart, senior agronomist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

MARLBOROUGH

Marriage Announced

Marlborough, May 13—Announcement has just been made of the marriage last month of Miss Dorothy Smith of Milton and Russell Coutant of Marlborough. The young people have just begun housekeeping in one of the houses owned by George Coutant on Western avenue. The marriage was performed in Newburgh on April 15, with Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Coutant as attendants. Mr. Coutant, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus H. Coutant, is a radio service man. Mrs. Coutant is the daughter of Eva Smith of Milton and is employed by Mrs. Gaffney.

Celebrates Birthday

Marlborough, May 13—On Monday afternoon, Mary Marks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marks, celebrated her seventh birthday with a party for a number of her school friends. Those attending were Vivian Brown, Rosalyn DeWitt, Betsy Black, Elaine Johnson, Helen Barry, Margaret Barry, Jo-Jo Pendino, Lena Bism, Phyllis Merritt, Margaret Harris, Jacqueline Palmer, Alice Kendor, Midge Nickerson, Herbert Masten, Frank Merritt, Laurin Abrams and Barton Harris. Mary received a number of pretty and useful gifts.

Thursday evening in St. Mary's Hall, Court Street, Maria, No. 970, Catholic Daughters of America, held its annual election of officers for the coming year. At this meeting Mrs. Lillian Dyer, district deputy of Newburgh, was present and gave a short talk. Grand regent will be Mrs. Cora Morehead; vice grand regent, Mrs. Walter Batten; historian, Marion Marks; treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Greco; financial secretary, Mrs. Katherine Hall; lecturer, Miss Muriel Hall; monitor, Mrs. Mary Hannigan; sentinel, Miss Elizabeth Pesavento; prophetess, Mrs. Nicholas Mertes; organist, Mrs. Roy Barry, and Mrs. Anna Marshall and Mrs. R. O. Froemel were elected trustees for the term of three years. Installation of the new officers will be held on Thursday evening, June 3, in St. Mary's hall. At this meeting plans were also made for a card party and dance which will be held on Friday evening, May 21, in the hall with Fred Fowler and his Melody-Makers furnishing music for the dancing. Miss Rose Troyano is the general chairman of this affair. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Greco are entertaining relatives from Tampa, Fla. Mrs. Bernard Cecire was elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church, Marlborough, at a meeting held last week. Other officers chosen for the coming year were: Mrs. Raymond Wygant, vice president; Mrs. C. E. Morell, treasurer; Miss Alida Lockwood, secretary; Mrs. C. E. Eckerson, entertainment. Final plans were made at this meeting for the food sale to be held in the store of Charles Lester.

The annual meeting of the Marlborough Canning Corp. was held last week and directors who will serve for the year were elected. Those named were: Andrew P. Antinori, George Canzoneri, Joseph Plazo, S. B. Wygant, Howard C. Baker, Joseph Dall Vecchia, Stefano Zambito, John Manion, Anthony Chellura, George Fowler and Joseph Zambito. A group of young people of the Marlborough Methodist Church met Monday evening with the Rev. Mr. Davies, the new pastor, to discuss plans for the formation of a young people's organization in the church. It was decided to have an Epworth League. The Local Epworth League disbanded a few years ago. Officers will be elected at a meeting to be held this week. A class of 22 seniors will be graduated from the Marlborough Central school in June. There were to have been 23, but one member of the senior class recently moved to Chicago. This year the class should present a picturesque sight, for the seniors will wear caps and gowns. The outfits will be made like the gowns worn by college graduates, the colors, used for these gowns, however, will carry out the class colors of maroon and white. The white caps and gown will be worn by the girls of the class and the boys' gowns will be of maroon. A new Men's Club was formed from the combination of two, when the Italian-American Democratic Club and the Italian-American Benevolent Club were combined. Joseph Trocarchi was elected president of the newly formed club, with Benjamin Chellura, vice-president, Nick Rizzo, recording secretary and Jake Alonge, corresponding secretary. Ten directors were also elected. Sam Canzoneri will be caretaker. The new club will be entirely non-political in purpose, with the welfare of the community as its object. The club offers its services, personal and financial, for a Memorial Day celebration in town this year. Whatever organization takes the day in charge will find its members ready to cooperate with men and money. At the meeting held last week between eighty and ninety members attended. On Thursday afternoon, Mrs.

Lloyd Reese will be hostess to the ladies of the Presbyterian Church at a tea. Bert Kniffin is able to be out after being ill at his home. George Purdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Purdy is out after being ill at his home with the mumps. Mrs. C. E. Staples, Jr., and Mrs. Perkins left on Thursday to spend the week-end in New York city. Mrs. Helen Bennett of Poughkeepsie spent last Wednesday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smalley. Mrs. Verne LaBrey of Syracuse spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fowler. Mr. and Mrs. H. Lincoln entertained over the week-end, Mrs. Lincoln's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Converse of Springfield, Mass. Misses Constance Ferguson and Lily Benjamin, supervisors in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, spent last Friday at their homes here. Beveridge Dunlop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Dunlop celebrated his birthday last Saturday with a "hot-dog" roast to a few of his friends. Mr. and Mrs. Christie Tutbill and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Staples and daughter, Elizabeth, spent the week-end at Wanaansink. Miss Mildred Kirkland of Newark, N. J., spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Grace Graves. Miss Kirkland, a former local girl, is now associated with the Newark Eye and Ear hospital, where she has charge of the clinic. Clyde Nugent and family will move shortly to Michigan, where Mr. Nugent has been transferred by his firm. A new Shell Oil Co. official will live in the house they will vacate, which is owned by DuBois Tooker. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Felter spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. James V. Wilson at Schroeon Lake. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Zacharie spent Thursday and Friday of last week in White Plains.

Endorsed for State Legion Commander

HARRY R. WILLIAMS

With four counties on record in endorsement of his candidacy, and several more expected to take similar action in the near future, Harry R.

Williams of Yonkers, N. Y., today looks as the leading candidate for state commander of the American Legion.

Election of a new state leader, to succeed Department Commander George M. Clancy of Rochester, will take place at the annual convention at Troy, N. Y., which will be in session from August 12 to 14 inclusive. Williams, organizer and four-time commander of Cook Post, No. 321, of Yonkers, is a former Westchester county and Ninth District commander. He is widely known in veteran circles throughout the state and nation.

Westchester county, which presents him as its choice for department commander, has had only one state commander since the formation of the American Legion. Williams, a member of the crew of the U. S. S. President Lincoln, torpedoed by a German submarine during the World War, was rescued after 18 hours on a raft after his ship was sunk. He was commended by the Navy Department for his conduct on this occasion.

In addition to Westchester county, Williams has received the unanimous endorsement of Rockland, Orange and Putnam counties.

Some Japanese teas are dyed to improve their color.

Elected President

HARRY A. SMITH

Harry A. Smith, vice-president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company since 1918, has been elected president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company, New York, and also president of the Blue Coal Corporation, New Jersey.

Sixteen special issues of commemorative coins were authorized by the last session of congress.

Police Check on High School Theft

Saugerties, May 3.—The Saugerties police have been working quietly for the past few days in an effort to find out who stole the sum of $75 from the purse of Mrs. Fannie Mulholland, who teaches the fourth grade in the street school. Until now the theft is still to be found.

The robbery took place on Friday afternoon, while the teacher was absent from her room and during that time the thief entered the room, opened her desk and removed the money, placing it into the pocket of her dress. She was notified and has been working on the case since that time. The money was the salary of the teacher, received during the day.

T. A. COMMUNITY NIGHT HELD ON WEDNESDAY

Saugerties, May 13.—The Parent-Teacher Association "Community Night" was held in the Saugerties High School auditorium on Wednesday evening. This was the last night of the program for the school year. The program was under the direction of Mr. Clark Maynard, director of music in the local schools. A brief business meeting was held and Mrs. Henry Schroeder, who represented the local association at the institute held in Cornell, was present and gave a most interesting account of the affair. The question box was opened for general discussion and at the close of the meeting the election of officers took place and refreshments were served.

UNION WORKERS TO ORGANIZE CEMENT MILLS AT CEMENTON

Saugerties, May 13.—Tony Romano and Louis Parace of Easton, Pa., who are representatives of the United Cement Workers' Union, Local 19466, of Easton, Pa., and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are in this section in an effort to organize the employees of the cement mills in Cementon.

Union meetings are being held and speakers are present to plead their cause to the local people.

Brickyard Strike Settled

Saugerties, May 10.—The strike which lasted only three days has been settled between the employees of the Staples Brickyard in Malden. The local workers asked for 50 cents more a day and when this was refused the men left their work. The matter was compromised, however, and an increase of 25 cents a day was granted and the men returned to work. There was no disorder.

The Parent-Teacher Association is awarding the prizes. Mrs. Daniel DuBois, chairman of the committee in charge, has appointed the following as judges: The Rev. W. B. Reed of Walden, Mrs. W. B. Reed and the Rev. F. R. Bosch of Walkkill.

Prizes will also be awarded to the pupils in the grades who present the best projects, which they have been doing for the past month. The judges of these are Mrs. Janet Brown, Mrs. E. H. Crane and Mrs. Prentice Reeves. These projects will be on exhibition on Monday evening and in addition to these some units of work done in the high school during the past year will be displayed.

There will also be the annual meeting of the P-T. A. with election of officers for the coming year.

The baseball team will play Cornwall High School on Friday afternoon on the Legion field and on Tuesday afternoon, May 18, will play Marlborough High School on the local field.

Woodstock
Woodstock, May 13.—A meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held in Mrs. Norton's room of the Woodstock school on Tuesday for the purpose of electing officers. The resignation as president of the Rev. Harvey I. Todd was regretfully accepted.

Young Men's Sport Suits $15.00 is the price, all wool, in checks, stripes, plaids, browns, tans, greys, all in the newest sport styles. All this at Walt Ostrander's, head of Wall St.

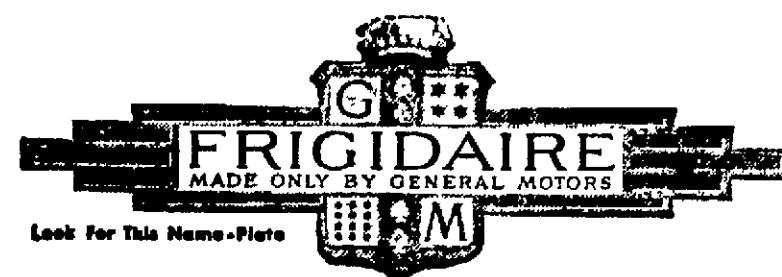

accepted and Mrs. George Layman was elected in his place. Mrs. Lillis Norton, teacher in the Woodstock school, was elected first vice president and Mrs. S. J. Stowell as second vice president. Mrs. G. Schrader, Jr., and Mrs. Pearl Shultis, were re-elected as secretary and treasurer, respectively. An advisory committee was appointed by Mrs. Layman, composed of Mrs. Besse Cohn, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd and the Rev. A. Walter Baker and Carl Eric Lindin, trustee.

Mrs. Cohn outlined the work which she and Mrs. Layman have done for the children's May Pole Dance which the Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring for the sesquicentennial.

The organization was very grateful that the state troopers have agreed to help correct traffic dangers here.

The sum of $8.23 was voted for rhythm band instruments for Mrs. Quick, so that they may arrive in time for use in the May Pole dance.

Central Hudson P. T. A. Newburgh Conference

Mrs. Carl Brister, first vice president of the State Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be the speaker at the annual spring conference of the Central Hudson District Parent-Teacher Association, which will open at the Newburgh Free Academy, Fullerton avenue and South street, Newburgh, Saturday at 9 a. m. Mrs. Brister's topic will be the P. T. A. unit as a community asset, which will also be the general theme of the conference.

The morning session will be devoted largely to the reports and election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Harry E. McCormick, of Cornwall, district director for the Central Hudson District, which includes Orange, Sullivan, Ulster, Dutchess and Putnam counties, will preside at both the morning and afternoon sessions, and will discuss the convention theme at the morning session. There will also be a panel discussion of Cornell Institute during the morning in which Cornell delegates from Florida, Mt. Marion, Benton Avenue, Middletown, Montgomery, Poughkeepsie, Putnam Valley, Saugerties and Washingtonville units will participate.

At the noon luncheon Mrs. Amy Bull Crist, of Monticombury, district student loan chairman, will present life memberships and student loan gifts.

The afternoon session will open with selections by the Newburgh Mother Singers, following which Mrs. Brister will speak. After round table discussions conducted by the district chairman, Miss Massey MacCracken, chairman of the library service of the state congress, will speak on school librarians and the P. T. A. The conference will end with the awarding of charters to new units and the distribution of attendance, poster and rating prizes.

Dance Opens Community Center.

The downtown Jewish Community Center on lower Broadway will be opened with the first annual spring dance to be given by the Jewish Youth Alliance Thursday evening, May 20. David Friedman, chairman of the special arrangements, announces that Roger Bass and his Cubes will play for the dancing, and the vocalist, Ruby Thorpe, will sing with the orchestra. Entertainment and novelties will be furnished during the dancing. Plans are being made for a loud speaker system to be installed in the building. It is hoped that this dance will evoke sufficient interest to open the Community Center permanently. Dancing will start at 9 o'clock.

Wednesday morning a group of friends gathered at the DeWitt home in Hurley for a coronation breakfast. Gifts were laid for nine. The assembled groups also listened to the broadcast of the Coronation of King George VI.

William S. Eltinge, son of Henry D. Eltinge, of Maiden Lane, and a Junior in Trinity College, Duke University, was this week named vice-president of two student organizations for next year. He is to serve as an officer in Alpha Chi, local social fraternity, and Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional commerce fraternity.

HARTWICK A CAPPELLA CHOIR

The A Cappella Choir of Hartwick College, will present an evening of music to the people of Kingston on Monday, May 17, at 8 p. m., at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Wurts street. There will be no admission charge, but an offering will be received to help defray the traveling expenses of the choir of 30 voices. The choir comes to Kingston as the guests of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer and St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The Hartwick Choir has made for itself a name in the East, similar to that held by the St. Olaf's Choir in the mid-west. It is often heard on the air. Where ever it has appeared it has always been assured of a welcome on its return visit.

Hartwick College is situated in Oneonta and is the child of the oldest religious educational school in America. It is recognized by the State Board of Regents as a school of science and liberal arts. It is co-educational. Kingston is represented amongst its student body and several of this year's high school graduates are looking forward to entering in the fall.

Young Republicans Endorse Cahill for Governor of County

The annual meeting of the associated Young Republican Clubs of Ulster county was held at the court house Tuesday night, when officers for the year were elected and designations made for county governor and co-governor.

Frederick Stang was re-elected president of the county association; Louis Bruhn, of Kingston secretary, and Clarence Rowe, of Tillson, treasurer.

Matthew V. Cahill, of Kingston, was designated as the choice of the meeting for governor of the county, succeeding Benjamin Slutsky, of Ellenville. For co-governor Miss Margaret Quick, of High Falls, was named. Miss Quick succeeds Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, of Highland. These designations will be submitted to the meeting of the state association to be held in Syracuse Saturday. The county representatives also endorsed the candidacy of Fred Meyers, of Albany county, for the position of vice president of the third judicial district, to succeed Frederick Stang.

A report of the county-wide picnic held at Tillson Lake August 15, was given by President Stang. It was estimated that between 2,300 and 2,500 people attended the picnic. Among clubs represented at the meeting, besides those in Kingston, were Ellenville, Kerhonkson, High Falls, Rosendale, Glasco and Wallkill.

WATERLOO THREATENED BY "GIN MARRIAGE" BILL

Waterloo, Ill., May 13 (AP).—Action of the Illinois Legislature to curb speedy marriages, under the so-called "gin marriage" bill now held in committee, threatens the major industry of this southwestern Illinois town of 2,800.

Anxiously awaiting the decision and hoping Gov. Henry Horner will veto the bill, if it is passed, are three justices of the peace whose willingness to place no obstacles in the path of those couples who would hurry into "marital bliss" has made Waterloo a Greta Green for nearby cities. "It'll just mean that folks will go to other states to get married," said Justice W. C. Ellbracht, who has said he will return to the embalming business if the bill, requiring three days' notice of intention to wed, is enacted. "It's a mistake," Justice-Grocer Fred M. Reitz, who shares the majority of the marriage business with Ellbracht and Joe Sommers, a barber, "is much of the talk of 'gin marriage' is exaggeration. They may be ginned up when they get here," he said.

Explorer—And it was so cold in the Antarctic that we did not dare to get our dogs.
Nan—Indeed? Why not?
Explorer—You see their tails were frozen stiff and if they wagged they would break off.

Wife—Horace dear, what shall we call the baby?
Professor—Oh, I dunno. Don't bother me now, I'm trying to think up a name for a new microbe.

Girls' dresses these days are nearly small things to worry about.

A young man walked breezily into the doctor's surgery:
Young Man—Ah, good morning, sir. I've just dropped in to tell you how greatly I benefited from your treatment.
Doctor (regarding him up and down)—But I don't remember you. You're not one of my patients.
Young Man—I know, but my uncle was and I'm his heir.

READ IT OR NOT—
The sport of horseshoe pitching is more than five centuries old. It is said to have been originated by the Druids.

Student—I got in trouble with the professor this morning.
Roommate—How come?
Student—He said that all questions could be answered by yes or no, and asked if anyone could give him one that couldn't. I asked him if he had stopped swearing.

There is plenty of room and loneliness at the top.

Man—I'd like to buy a diamond necklace for my wife.
Floorwalker—Glassware in aisle 12.

The greatest hero in the movies often is the man who sits through some of the pictures.

A dusky son of Alabama was busily engaged in a cootie hunt. When asked by the sergeant what he was doing, he replied:
Negro—'I-se a-huntin' fo' dem 'rithmetic bugs.

Sergeant—Why do you call them 'rithmetic bugs?
Negro—Cause dey add to my misery, dey subtracts from my pleasure, dey divides my attention, and dey multiply like de debil.

Just Another Woman!
A tournament of golf was on. He thought she'd like to see. So asked her, and quite strange to say the lady did agree.

Though lacking knowledge of the game, and deep appreciation, she graciously accepted it, and showed no indignation.

At last the victor, in worn garb, stood on the 18th green. While all around him his well-dressed admirers could be seen. She raised her brow in sheer disgust, and up went her cute nose.

Amazed, she asked: "You mean to say he won—in those old clothes?"

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Quality Street"

Katherine Hepburn contributes a captivating performance in this J. M. Barrie play that has everything in the way of comedy, romance and excitement. Supported by Franchot Tone and augmented by such talented players as Eric Blore, Estelle Winwood and Cora Witherspoon, the story gives the emotional Hepburn many opportunities to do her stuff. An RKO-Radio picture, well worth seeing.

Kingston: "Her Husband's Secretary". Another play based on the office wife motif is to be seen at the Kingston with the eternal triangle played by Jean Muir, Henry Hull and Beverly Roberts. The entertainment program also offers another feature entitled "China Passage," with Constance Worth and a worthy cast.

Orpheum: "College Holiday" and "Under Cover Man". The popular Jack Benny of radio fame is equally good in motion picture dramatics in the musical comedy offering at the downtown theatre, one of those useful but impossible college tales that is a riot of fun and nonsense. Mary Boland and Burns and Allen are featured in a large cast. "Under Cover Man" is the associate feature with Charles Starrett.

Tomorrow
Broadway Same.

Kingston: "The Woman I Love." Joseph Kessel's novel of the war has been made into a dramatic talking picture at the Kingston as it tells how the shock and brutality of killing reacts upon the minds of the principals in the cast. The production is essentially a love story, placed against the backdrop of a war torn country and Paul Muni and Miriam Hopkins bring every drop of tragedy from the characterizations. Louis Hayward is also featured in the cast and his work is outstanding and eloquently done. Anatole Litvak directed.

Orpheum: "Rainbow on the River" and "End of the Trail." Bobby Breen, youthful singing sensation of the radio, turns to talking pictures in this story of an orphan and how he wins his way into the story heart of an old woman. The whole show was constructed around Mr. Breen's vocal chords and his clear, juvenile voice thrills shrilly through most of the action. There is some comedy, some moments of sadness, but the play is light and happy for the most part. "End of the Trail" is the other feature with Jack Holt starred.

Plumbing Supply Co.
Raphael Epstein of 57 Canal street, Ellenville, has certified to the county clerk of Ulster county under the provisions of the assumed business name law, that he is conducting a business at New System Plumbing Supply Company.

Service Club Meeting.
The regular meeting of the Service Club of the Fair Street Reformed Church will be held Friday, May 11, at 2:30 p. m., at the church. There will be election of officers.

Plan Coney Trip.
The C. & M. Club will hold a meeting at the home of Walter Corey, 31 Chalkhill avenue, tonight at 8 o'clock, to plan for the trip to Coney Island on May 23.

Prizes Awarded to Y. M. C. A. Bowlers

Nearly 50 enthusiastic bowlers sat down Wednesday evening to the annual banquet of the Y. M. C. A. American and National Leagues, which bowl all of their games on the Y. M. C. A. alleys.

President C. E. Wonderly, who presided, called on General Secretary Robert L. Sisson to introduce Lester W. Davis, recreational director of the Wallkill Security Prison. Mr. Davis explained how recreation helps to make useful citizens of the men in the institution. He outlined the games such as ping pong, soft ball, pinocle, etc., and then some of the sports taking more physical energy. Recreation can play a great part in preventing young men from getting into trouble during their leisure hours, he said. Mr. Davis closed by urging more participation by the tired business men and the industrial worker in recreational activities.

President C. E. Wonderly then presented the prizes to the winners of the league games as follows:

Y. M. C. A. League Team Champions—Pulver Shirt Company No. 1.

R. Roux, T. Rowland, H. Hornbeck.

Y. M. C. A. National League Champions—Freeman Publishing Company—H. Shurter, N. Bruck, J. Hartman.

High Average—H. Wood, Central Hudson Gas & Electric.

High Three Games—R. Paul, High School Faculty.

High Single Game—W. Ingalls, Wonderly Company.

Mr. Ingalls was also given the A. B. C. medal for high single on the alleys.

The following slate of the new officers was elected by the league:

President, Thomas Rowland; vice-president, Wilson Ingalls; secretary, Howard Shurter; assistant secretary, Charles Henke; treasurer, Ernest LeFevre.

A rising vote of thanks was given to C. E. Wonderly, retiring president of the league; also to the ladies of the Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary who served the banquet.

Master of Ship Dead.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 13 (AP).—

Coast guard headquarters said today the German steamship Wiegand, aground on a reef south of Miami, reported its master was found dead this morning.

"Wiegand reports master found dead—apparently suicide," the patrol boat Pandora radioed headquarters here. "Pandora will make investigation and remove body to Miami." Neither the name of the Wiegand's master nor details of his death were given in the first report.

Spring Supper.

The Ashokan M. E. Willing Workers held their monthly meeting at the home of Miss Rattie McAuley on Thursday, May 8.

At this time plans were completed for the spring supper which will be held on Wednesday, May 26, in the church hall, Virginia.

Baked ham and home made strawberry shortcake with cream, will be the high lights of the supper. The date for the annual church fair has been set for August 5.

Ernest Stedman Killed.

Hudson, N. Y., May 13 (AP).—Ernest L. Stedman, 35, of Poughkeepsie, was killed and two unidentified persons were severely injured in an automobile collision near here today.

The injured, a woman, 65, and a boy, 10, riding with Stedman, were brought to Hudson City Hospital.

State Police Corporal John Dwyer said Stedman's car collided with that of Herbert Seism, 61, Greenport, then hit a tree. Seism was unhurt.

Speed Limit Is Now 25 Miles an Hour

For a number of years there has been agitation among auto drivers to have the speed limit in Kingston increased from 20 miles an hour, but nothing was ever done about it until the recent survey made of traffic conditions in the city by the committee appointed last year by Mayor C. J. Heiseleman. This committee composed of the traffic control committee of the common council, Chief of Police J. Allen Wood, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, City Engineer James Norton and Superintendent David Conway of the Board of Public Works, recommended that the speed limit be increased to 25 miles an hour in the city.

This recommendation was approved by the council and included in the new traffic ordinance which was unanimously adopted at the last meeting of the aldermen. This new traffic code is now in effect, and the speed limit in the city is now 25 miles an hour instead of 20 miles.

Years ago when Dr. George F. Chandler was a member of the board of police commissioners and of the board of public works he advocated increasing the speed limit in Kingston, contending that the limit of 20 miles an hour slowed up traffic when it was enforced. Others who believed the speed limit should be increased noted that no arrests were made for speeding of drivers who proceeded under 30 miles an hour in streets where traffic was not heavy.

Presbyterians Met To Plan Activities

The executive committee of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church held an important meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. A. H. Russell, on Brewster street, on Wednesday evening, May 12.

It was decided to hold the annual spring supper in the chapel of the church on Tuesday evening, June 8, and a committee was named to prepare the menu and arrange the plans.

The annual fair and turkey dinner will be held this year on November 9 and 10 in the chapel of the church. These annual events are always looked forward to not only by the members of the congregation but the members of other churches who always plan to attend. The turkey dinner will be served the first day of the fair and on the closing day the turkey salad supper will be served.

Smith Won't Testify

New York, May 13 (AP).—Although subpoenaed by the government, Alfred E. Smith will not be a witness in the income tax case against his political and business associates.

Pierre E. du Pont and John J. Raskob. The former governor and 1928 Democratic presidential candidate—who made Raskob chairman of the National Committee in '28, and who was one of the leaders with Raskob, du Pont and J. P. Morgan in the organization of the American Liberty League—sails for Europe Saturday.

Violence Today at Steel Strike Scene

Police hurried tear gas into a shouting crowd of pickets today at the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation's plant in Alliquippa, Pa., where the nation's first major steel strike in 19 years is on. One man was injured.

Approximately 27,000 workers at the corporation's mills in Alliquippa and Pittsburgh were idle. Conditions were peaceful except for minor disturbances occurring as non-union men attempted to enter the mills through the picket lines.

The strike threatened to spread. Chairman Philip Murray of the steel workers' organizing committee called a meeting of the union executive committee for Saturday to consider "strategy" against the Republic Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company. Both companies have refused to sign collective bargaining contracts.

The union reported its members at the big Bethlehem Steel Corporation in Johnstown, Pa., had demanded a collective bargaining contract "within 10 days."

WALLKILL AUXILIARY'S MONTHLY MEETING

Wallkill, May 13.—The regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Cornellus Rose Post No. 1034, was held in the post's rooms on Monday evening, May 10.

Final plans were made for the public card party to be held on Friday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock in the post rooms. Plans were also made for the unit members to meet at the post rooms, Wednesday evening, May 19, to make small pillows for patients in Ward E-3 at Castle Point.

A committee will visit the hospital at Chelsea May 23 to take the pillows to the veterans. Anyone wishing to accompany the committee should contact Mrs. Hugh Galbraith, rehabilitation chairman of the unit.

The annual poppy sale will officially open May 21 and will continue through Memorial Day. The poppies are all assembled by disabled veterans, many of whom must depend on the money they make in this manner. The proceeds of the poppy sale will all be used for local welfare and rehabilitation work of the unit.

Sums of money were voted toward sending a local Boy Scout to Washington in June for the jamboree, and to help buy a net for the third tennis court in the play park.

The unit accepted the post's offer to have the refreshment stand at the "Second Annual Gambol" to be held at the Legion field on July 21, 22, 23 and 24. The proceeds of which is to go into the unit treasury.

NEW TUMBLE INN READY FOR HEADLINE SEASON.

The New Tumble Inn at Croton-on-Hudson, which has been completely renovated, will present its first annual celebrity night Saturday evening, May 15, it was announced by Dick Jennings, head of that establishment.

Stars of radio, stage and screen will make a personal appearance during the evening. Bill Smith, a former resident of this city, and his Cornellians have been engaged for the season to play dinner and dance music at this place, with Spence Gray, radio commentator, as master of ceremonies.

Bullet Hole in Plane.

Hackensack, N. J., May 12 (AP).—Bergen county police tonight said Teterboro airport officials recently reported a bullet hole had been found in a plane but said an investigation failed to disclose when or where the shot was fired. Hasbrouck Heights police said they had been informed the plane might have been fired at by a resident of a nearby community who was angered by low flying. The name of Teterboro, about 75 miles from Lakehurst where the zeppelin Hindenburg burned, was recently changed to Hendrix.

Television Gave Coronation

London, May 13 (AP).—Television took the coronation parade to some 30,000 persons far away from the scene, and today the consensus was it had been markedly successful. Even so, officials of the British Broadcasting Company said if there had been sunshine instead of rain the pictures would have been 50 per cent better. The "viewers" saw the spectacle in the comfort of their homes, in offices, in motion picture theatres and in halls hired for the occasion.

Atkins Back in Jail for 30 Days.

James R. Atkins, 44, gave his address as 13-10 I street, Washington, D. C., was arrested Wednesday by Trooper Reilly on a disorderly conduct charge. On arraignment before Justice R. J. Mooney at Eddyville Atkins was given 30 days in the Ulster county jail. He had just finished serving a five days sentence imposed by Judge Culliton in city court on a public intoxication charge. Atkins claims to be an ex-service man.

Choice Deferred

Syracuse, N. Y., May 13 (AP).—Choice of a bishop coadjutor for the Episcopal diocese of central New York was deferred today until September when clerical and lay delegates were unable to agree after hours of balloting at the 69th annual convention. A conference rule that the successful candidates must have a majority of the clerical and a majority of the lay delegates votes caused the deadlock.

Pumps for Canada.

The Canfield Supply Company, who are distributors for Goulds Pumps, Inc., have just made a shipment of electric pumps to Quebec.

Rienzo vs. Altamari

The Rienzo A. C. will play the Altamari Aces tonight at Cordis data.

The idea that the constitution, as constituted, is a refuge for labor as well as capital, throws a new light on many things.

MARKETS FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, May 13 (AP).—(State Department Agriculture and Markets)

—Lettuce and Romaine grown under glass from Long Island and State Island was steadily becoming more plentiful today. The market was dull and weaker as demand was generally slow. The Big Boston Variety, packed in 32 qt. crates containing 32 heads, wholesale from $1.15 to $1.50, mostly $1.25-$1.50. Iceberg lettuce realized $1.25-$1.15 and Romaine packed in similar size containers brought $1.15 to $1.50.

Demand for asparagus was very slow under fairly liberal supplies. Prices again slumped in a dull and weaker market. Green asparagus sold within the range $1.50-$3 per dozen bunches, some extra large size, however, bringing $3.50-$5.50. White asparagus ranged from $1.50-$2.50.

Supplies of upstate fresh fruits and vegetables continued light. Demand was rather slow and the market generally dull.

Carrots—New York, western sections, topped, unwashed, 100 lb. sack $1.75-$1.90, washed, bushel baskets or tubs, best mostly $1.25.

Onions—New York, western sections, 50 lb. sack, yellow U. S. No. 1, $2.62½; 2½ to 2¾ inch $2.25-$2.50; Russets No. 1, 2 inch $1.75; 1¾ inch $1.12½; Stark No. 1, 2½ inch $1.75-$2.

$1.65. New crop, Texas, 50 lb. sack yellow Bermuda U. S. No. 1 and commercial grades $1.25-$1.50, mostly $1.30-$1.40.

Potatoes—New York, upstate, round white U. S. No. 1, 100 lb. sack, fair quality, mostly $1.40. Long Island, 100 lb. sack, Green Mt. U. S. No. 1, best $2.05-$2.15, poorer $1.50-$2. Maine, 100 lb. sack Green Mt. U. S. No. 1, $1.85-$2, some $2.05, poorer lower. New crop: Florida, double-headed barrel, Spaulding Rose U. S. No. 1, $4.75-$5.75, mostly $5-$5.50. Texas, bushel crates, Spaulding Rose U. S. No. 1, $1.60-$1.65.

Rhubarb—Hudson Valley, per bunch, 0.2c-0.24c, poorer and small size as low as 0.1c-0.12c.

Apples—per bushel basket, tub or open box, New York—Hudson Valley, Baldwin No. 1, 2½ inch $2-$2.25. Ben Davis No. 1, 2½ inch $1.40-$1.50. Delicious No. 1, 2-2½ inch $3. Gano No. 1, 2½ inch $1.40-$1.50. McIntosh No. 1, 2½ inch $3-$3.25, fair quality $2.50-$2.75, poorer $2-$2.25. Newton Pippin No. 1, 2½ inch $2.10; 2¾ inch $1.75. Northern Spy No. 1, 3 inch $3; 2½ inch $2.25-$2.75. Pomeroy 2½ inch $1.50. Rome Beauty No. 1, 3 inch $2.62½; 2½ to 2¾ inch $2.25-$2.50; Russets No. 1, 2 inch $1.75; 1¾ inch $1.12½; Stark No. 1, 2½ inch $1.75-$2.

Promotion Exams For Cops Friday

Approximately 25 members of the Kingston police department have signed their intention of taking the promotion examination for police sergeant to be held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Kingston High School. The examination was called by the municipal civil service commission to prepare an eligible list from which the police department could select four men to appoint as sergeants of the police department. The present two sergeants, Charles Phinney and James V. Simpson, will also take the examination for promotion to the office of lieutenants of the department.

The evening the civil service board will meet at the city hall to complete arrangements for the examination. The board also plans to meet Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock to prepare the examination papers.

In order that police work may be carried on as usual while the majority of the policemen were taking the examination Chief of Police J. Allen Wood engaged five additional men to serve as specials.

Market Again on Decline Wednesday

The market was again on the declining side yesterday, although the losses, as shown by the Dow-Jones average, were slight. Industrials were down 0.31; rails 0.06; utilities 0.35. Commodities generally were slightly lower. Corporate bonds showed a moderate gain, but Government were off. With the London market closed, on account of the coronation, markets abroad were dull.

On the righter side were further announcements of plant expansion, railroad car orders and estimates of improved earnings. Gulf Refining is spending about $2,500,000 on expansion of its Toledo refinery. First Stone Tire & Rubber is planning construction of a new plant at Riverview, Mich. Northern American Rayon expects to spend about $2,500,000 for plant improvement this year. Union Pacific has ordered 1,000 50-ton ballast cars from American Car & Foundry.

American Gas & Electric System operations show a balance about 12 per cent larger than a year ago. First quarter earnings of International Products are estimated at $105,000 compared with $84,000 a year ago. Techcolor, Inc., first quarter profit is estimated at $165,000, well over a year ago.

Electric output was up 12.8 per cent in week ended May 8. Cerro de Pasco Copper's output of metal for second quarter is already sold.

Washington officials are reported considering abandonment of the sugar quota system set up by the Jones-Costigan Act. Secretary Hull has pointed out that domestic consumers last year were compelled to pay approximately $350,000,000 in excess of world prices for their sugar.

The Holly Sugar Corp. reported net of $2,881,670, or $5.42 a common share for year ended March 31 compared with $2,684,519, or $5.02 a common share in preceding year. April operating revenues of New Haven are expected to be 14 per cent more than $6,376,369 reported year ago. Atlantic Coast Line March net income was $787,946 vs. $648,806 year ago. Lackawanna reported March net income of $240,039 vs. net loss of $463,113 in 1936 month.

Net earnings reports for first quarter of 1937 include: International Nickel $11,714,957 in first quarter of 1937 compared with $3,386,787 in first quarter 1936. United Gas Corp. $3,210,584 vs. $3,754,886 ended February 28 vs. $2,467,626.

Electric Power & Light $2,681,382 (3 months ended February 28) vs. $2,467,626. American Power & Light $2,772,295 (3 months ended February 28) vs. $3,039,721.

International Paper & Power $1,746,577 vs. $402,674 (net loss). Greyhound Corp. $312,512 vs. $182,983.

Lane Bryant declared dividend of 50 cents on common, after lapse of five years. Eastman Kodak boosted common payments to $2 from $1.50. Western Auto Supply pays 40 cents on new common. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie authorized $2.

Cluett, Peabody plans to split common stock on a three-for-one basis. SWOC last night ordered a strike of 25,000 employees of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. following failure to obtain a contract.

General Motors Fisher Body plant No. 2 at Flint closed following a walkout resulting from a wage dispute.

New York, May 13 (AP)—Fresh labor difficulties in steel and motor centers today kicked the props from under the stock market.

Leading issues slumped 1 to 5 points generally with a few off much more in dealings that, occasionally put the ticket tape behind. Numerous new lows for the year or longer were posted.

Industrials and utilities led the fast retreat. Rails held fairly well for a time, but they eventually met selling pressure. There were one or two attempts to rally the list, but volume dwindled and renewed declines put prices around their lowest levels near the final hour.

Transfers were at the rate of about 1,900,000 shares.

Touching off the tumble in shares was the calling of a strike at plants of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company and threats of unionization difficulties for other independent steel concerns. It was the first major upset in the steel industry in 18 years.

U. S. Steel was among the first to slide. Trailing it were Bethlehem, National Steel, American Rolling Mill, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Chrysler, Yellow Truck, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, International Nickel, J. I. Case, Standard Oil of N. J., Continental Oil, Texas Corp., Loew's, Celotex, Cluett Peabody, International Paper & Power Preferred and National Supply.

New 1937 bottoms were touched by Western Union, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works, Brooklyn Union Gas, National Power & Light, Seaboard Oil, Montgomery Ward, American Tobacco Co. "B," Barnsdall, Penick & Ford and Paramount.

Local Death Record

The remains of Michael Ward, who died on German street, were sent to New York by James M. Murphy, undertaker, for interment in St. John's cemetery, Brooklyn.

The funeral of Patrick Johnson, former Wilbur resident, who died in Brooklyn, was held Monday with interment in St. Mary's cemetery, Kingston, on arrival of the 1:45 p. m. West Shore train.

Funeral services for J. DePuy Hasbrouck, prominent member of the Ulster county bar, who died at his home on Main street on Wednesday, will be held privately. Friends may view the remains at the parlors of A. Carr & Son on Pearl street on Thursday afternoon and evening. Burial will be made in the High Falls cemetery.

Lyman M. Smith died at his home in Ashokan on Wednesday, May 12, after a long illness. Surviving are two sons, Ward B. of Philadelphia and Abram J. of New York city; also two brothers, George Smith of Yorklyn, Del. and Herbert Smith of North Rose, N. Y. Funeral services will be held at the Ashokan M. E. Church on Saturday, May 15, at 2 p. m. Interment will be in Hudler cemetery at Mt. Tremper.

Conrad J. Bettenhausen, 70, of Binnewater, died at his home, Wednesday, May 12. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Clara Bettenhausen; one stepson, Lewis Grant, and one brother, Peter Bettenhausen, all of Binnewater. The funeral will be held at his late home, Saturday at 2 p. m. Services will be conducted by the Rev. C. C. Chilton of Hurley. Burial will be in the Hurley cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Klein, a highly respected resident of St. Mary's street, died Wednesday after a long illness. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Keever Schwartz, and Mrs. Perry Magur of New York city, and four sons, Jacob of New York, Aaron of Bridgeport, Conn., Samuel at home and Harry of this city; also two sisters, Mrs. L. Epstein and Mrs. J. Furman of this city. Funeral services were held at St. Mary's street at 2 o'clock today with Rabbi

I. O. Ticher officiating. Interment was made in Agudas Achaim cemetery.

Mrs. Mary McNally McCullough, wife of John F. McCullough, of East Kingston, died Wednesday evening after a very brief illness. Mrs. McCullough was a highly respected resident of East Kingston all her life and leaves a host of friends who will be deeply grieved to learn of her death. Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Thomas and John, Jr., her mother, Mrs. Bridget McNally, three sisters, Mrs. John Hensberry and Mrs. Thomas Dempsey of East Kingston and Mrs. Charles Dasher of this city, and a brother, John McNally, of New York city. Funeral from the late home on John street, East Kingston, Saturday morning at 9:30, thence to St. Columba's church where at 10 o'clock a high mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret Fee Flynn, widow of the late Peter Flynn, died at her home at Port Ewen Wednesday evening, after a short illness. She was a woman of sterling Christian character and her many kind words and deeds will long be cherished by her many relatives and friends she made while she dwelt in Port Ewen. She was a devoted member of the Church of the Presentation, from whence the funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 9:30, where a high mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of her soul. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery. She leaves to mourn her loss four daughters, Miss Mary Flynn of Port Ewen, Mrs. Margaret Forth of Cohoes, Mrs. Sally Gallagher of Kingston, Mrs. Esther Van Loon of Port Ewen; two sons, Morris of West New York, N. J., James of Port Ewen; one brother, Daniel Fee of Port Ewen. The members of the L. C. B. A. will meet at the home at 7:30 Friday evening to recite the Rosary.

A creeping alfalfa, discovered by an American plant explorer on a trip to Asia three years ago, promises to be a valuable grazing and soil-holding plant for the semi-arid regions of the west.

These dances have proved increasingly popular and it is hoped that the dance on May 21 may be as well patronized.

Goths Lost Identity, but Descendants Still Exist

The Goths were an ancient warlike tribe of Teutons who are first spoken of as inhabiting the country in the vicinity of the Baltic sea. They were looked on by the Romans, whose provinces they ravaged, as merely destroying barbarians; hence their name came to be applied, like that of their kindred race of Vandals, to any rude, uncultured, destructive people, relates a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Goths lost their separate identity centuries ago, but their descendants are to be found in most of the western and northern countries of Europe.

From the Baltic they moved in the third century, toward the Black sea. At the Dnieper river they divided into eastern and western branches—the eastern being known as Ostrogoths and the western Visigoths.

The Ostrogoths, after ravaging eastern Europe, established a kingdom in Italy, under Theodoric. It lasted from 493 to 554 A. D., when the country was recovered by the Eastern Roman empire and added to its territories.

The Visigoths, after various successes against the Romans, sacked Rome, under Alaric, in 410. Many of them afterward settled in Spain and founded there a kingdom which lasted until that country was conquered by the Saracens.

"America," as Word, Born in 1507 in French Town

Although America was born, historically speaking, in 1492, it was not named and christened until 15 years later at Saint Die, a small and attractive French town in the Vosges district, writes a Paris United Press correspondent.

The baptismal certificate is still there as well as the baptismal font where this historical christening took place.

The baptismal certificate consists of a map upon which the newly discovered continent was designated for the first time as America, by Martin Waldseemüller, one of the cartographers, and the baptismal font is the building, still standing, where those cartographers of four centuries ago labored.

It was at Saint Die that a small group of scholars carried on their researches and made eager use of the new art of printing. In an introduction to an edition of the "Cosmography of Ptolemy," in which was included an account of the journeys of Americus Vesputi, it was suggested that the name America be given to this newly discovered continent.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

The time has come for someone to carry the torch for Ducky-Wucky Medwick. Although he's generally regarded as one of big league baseball's five most dangerous hitters, and has played as big a part as anyone in the Cardinals' fight to stay in the top-flight, the headlines somehow have missed him.

They've gone instead to Dizzy Dean's noisier exploits or to the colorful antics of such other Gas-House gangsters as Pepper Martin

Yet, Medwick has been producing the runs, game after game, so vital to the Cards and their wretched pitching staff.

Last season, he led the league in runs batted in, base hits and total bases. He third base hit 10 times.

books by collecting 64 two-baggers and ten hits in straight times at bat. In his five-and-a-fraction years under the big tent he's hit for a .333 average.

This year, he's leading the National League in batting, with 442, in runs batted in, in base hits, and in doubles, and is tied for the top in runs scored. In the Cards' 18 games to date, he has failed to hit in only three, and has driven in 24 runs.

He found Baker Bowl, the Phillants of Claude Passeau and Pete
liveness much to his liking yesterday,

mashes, and driving five runs across

The victory, although marking a successful 1937 starting debut for Bill McGee, failed to close the gap between the second-place Gas-House

ang and the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates. The Bucs maintained their 3½ game edge by twice coming from behind to whip the Giants 5-1 with the hero role falling to Bill Wirtz's three inning hitless, runless relief twirling.

Brooklyn Dodgers entrenched themselves more firmly in the first division with a 5-1 win over the Mar-dwelling Cincinnati Reds, behind Max Butcher's five-hit flinging. All but one game in the American league was rained out, with the Chicago White Sox moving up to

Registered Shoot Sunday at Ulster County Gun Club Field

Mid-West Bowlers Get Lion's Share

Rochester, N. Y., May 13 (AP)—Bowling teams totaling two-thirds of the total entry fee are in the mail to the Ulster County Gun Club field on Sunday, May 16, for the twentieth annual mid-west international bowling tournament. The tournament is the largest of its kind in the world, with bowlers carrying off the lion's share of the $10,000 prize money.

One squad of host city bowlers, the "Reds," won the final shaft last night, but they were defeated by a large margin to get where near the goals set over the last month.

Mrs. Emma Phaler, national secretary, plans to leave for her home in Columbus, Ohio, within the next few days and immediately start the tournament for what the association predicts will be its biggest turning point in its history.

Last night's squad wound up the 15 pin barrage started April 15, which time 378 regular teams and 15 booster quints made their debut for national honors. There were 11 doubles and 1,539 singles entries.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT.

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Sixto Escobar, 122½, defeated Rito, world bantam weight champion, stopped Nicky Jerome, 3, Brooklyn (2), non-title.

Milwaukee—Jack Gibbons, 170, Paul outpointed Max Chowaniec, 10 Milwaukee (10).

On Sunday, May 16, a registered trap shoot will be held at the Ulster County Gun Club field. These shoots find favor with the 16-yard shooters in the surrounding counties and in the past men from Newburgh, Fallburgh, Monticello, Middletown and the state of Pennsylvania have attended. Events include 100 16-yard targets and the yardage handicap of 50 targets. The traps are located about a mile and a half from Kingston on Route 28 and the shoot will commence at 1 p. m., rain or shine.

The second leg of the May team shoot was partially completed at the skeet field Wednesday afternoon. The scores at present are so incomplete that it is not possible to give the true standing of the teams.

Roswell Coles, secretary of the club, is endeavoring to arrange team shoot with clubs from Poughkeepsie and Stamford.

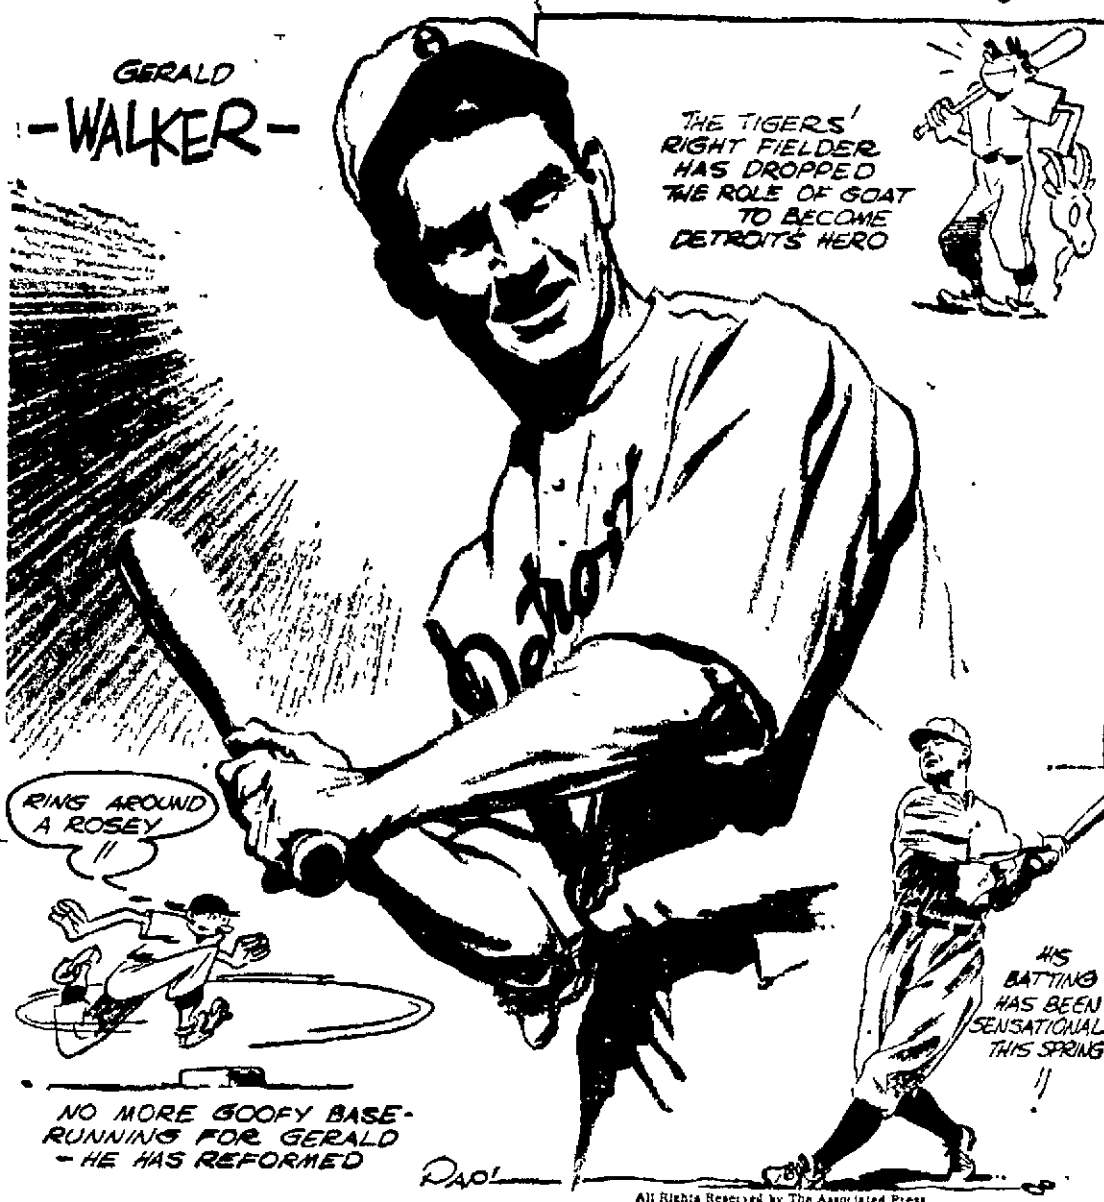

Team scores marked up Wednesday are as follows:

Sutliff	17+14=31

Chappie Scores Upset by His Slaughter of Danny Romano; Meets Joey Turck on Friday

Kid Chappie, who is to slash it out with Joey Turck, Friday night at the municipal auditorium, in a "grudge" fight slated for five rounds, left jabbed his way to a decisive win over Danny Romano, Beacon star, last night at Poughkeepsie.

Considered the underdog, by local fistie fans who saw him drop two decisions in a row at the auditorium, Chappie rushed from his corner at the opening gong and kept his left planted in Romano's face for the entire bout. Once he flattened the Beacon beller with a hard stab, and several times locked him with dynamic right crosses.

Although Chappie refrained from mixing it and fought a "heady" fight, he did plenty of damage with body blows in the 12-fighting, when Romano clinched. However, the two were not entangled very often, because Danny found it difficult to get inside of Chappie's extended left.

Kingstonians at the ringside and there were a goodly number who followed their idol to the Bridge City cheered the Kid on, encouraging him all the way in the scrap which without a doubt was the best of his career.

Frankie Romano, former Golden Gloves featherweight, who was in his brother's corner, said "Chappie has a nice left. He's one of the sweetest little fighters I've seen. He beat Danny all right, but I'd like to see them go at it again, preferably in Kingston. I'm going to school him about getting under that left, and the result should be a different story next time."

By pummeling Romano, Chappie proved himself ready to tangle with Joe Turck in their so-called "grudge" battle at the auditorium, Friday night. After losing two scraps in a row, one to Roy Collier and the other to Mario Severino, Chappie was rated as none too strong for the veteran 126 pounder who challenged him.

Turck insisted on the match for Friday, and says he'll be in the best shape of his career. He's quite confident and has been training hard for the setto, which should develop into a thunderbolt of action as the rounds roll along.

Romano will be on the card tomorrow, too, battling Mario Severino, the boy who beat Chappie. Danny should have a better chance with the Albany schoolboy, experts say, because the up-stater mixes more readily than Chappie.

There are seven bouts on the card, which is topped by the heavyweight match between Johnny Bileski, Schenectady Polish beller, and Dick Ostrander thumping soldier from West Point.

Others on the bill are Lefty Van Kleeck, Joey Tantillo, Dominick Sealzo, Eddie Steele, Guy Coremo, all action fighters.

Hercules Drub Jones Dairy

Wednesday night the Hercules softballers brought the winning streak of the Jones Dairy to an abrupt end at Hasbrouck Park by the score of 11 to 3.

The Hercules boys found little difficulty in touching the offerings of Tomshaw for 19 hits. Heitica featured in the box for Hercules with 8 strikeouts, with Kennedy behind the plate.

Friday night Hercules will oppose a strong aggregation at Baimann's lot.

Colonials to Play Home Sunday Against the Yonkers All Stars

The Kingston Colonials will meet the Yonkers All Stars Sunday at the Pan Am diamond at 3 o'clock sharp. Manager Fred Davi announced today. The Colonials originally were scheduled to meet the Savitt-Gems in Hartford but that game has been postponed until May 23.

A practice will be held today at the Pan Am diamond at 6 o'clock. Captain Joe Hoffman requests every member of the club to be present.

Yonkers will come to the Sauger-ties road diamond Sunday with an outstanding club "Smoky Joe" Cavanaugh, one of the greatest speedball artists in the metropolitan district, will be on the mound for the visitors.

The Colonials will feature Charlie Husta at second or third base in Sunday's game. The popular basketball star made his debut with the Davimen last week against the New York Colored Giants and acquitted himself in great style.

Husta played a bang-up game in the field and slashed out a long triple. Local fans who marvelled at his performance in the American League, will find him an outstanding performer on the baseball diamond.

Warren Shackett and Lefty Martin will divide the pitching duties against the Yonkers tossers. Bill Thomas, the third member of the staff, has joined the Scottville club for the balance of the season. Manager Davi has announced intentions of securing a leading college pitcher through Larry Doyle, scout for the

New York Giants

Ed Dougherty, heavy-hitting Tanagerville youth, is expected to join the Colonials in time for the Hartford trip. Dougherty, the leading batter in the mountain district last season, played steadily in the Los Angeles City League this season.

The Colonials flashed plenty of hitting power against the Colored Giants last week and Manager Davi predicts a banner season Sunday's game is the last Sunday engagement for the Colonials at home until the fall when a series will be staged against the City League champions.

Altamont Track Is Made Safer

Altamont, May 13—No longer need drivers of high-powered racing automobiles risk death or serious injury at Altamont, officials in charge of the Memorial Day race meet, Monday, May 31, have announced.

In an effort to make Altamont the safest race course in the East, directors of the Albany and Schenectady county fair association have authorized an additional 10 feet of track bed placed at the two extremities of the half mile oval.

When operations are completed, shortly after the Memorial Day race, the north and south turns will be approximately 60 feet in width. It is the aim of fair officials to add the extra 10 feet on the inner confines of the clay-surfaced course.

Appleknockers Trim Coolerators

The newly organized Coolerators, minus five of their regulars, were handed a 20-9 trouncing Wednesday, by Artie Kaplan's Appleknockers at Barmann's Field in a practice game. The Coolerators pounded Ben Toffel, ace softball artist, to all corners of the lot in the first two innings, pushing across 9 runs. Toffel, however, managed to blank the team the rest of the way, while his mates were amassing 22 hits to score 20 runs.

Chet Baltz and Boyce did the pitching for the Coolerators. Four home runs featured the slugging contest. J. Schatzel lead the hitters with four bingles. The city softball league starts next Monday night.

The Cornell-Rescue softball team will start its season next Tuesday evening at Block Park against the Barclay Knit Mill team. The roster of the Cornell-Rescue team is composed of most of the players who played under the C. & R. Social Club banner last year. Manager Jimmy Woods announces the following line-up: Snyder, J. Woods, E. Woods, Zeeh, Maines, Stumpf, Ortale, Finley, Tomshaw, Coughlin, Madden, Spiegel and Krum. Manager Woods has called a practice game for Friday night at Block Park.

Blue Sox Have 2 Games on Slate

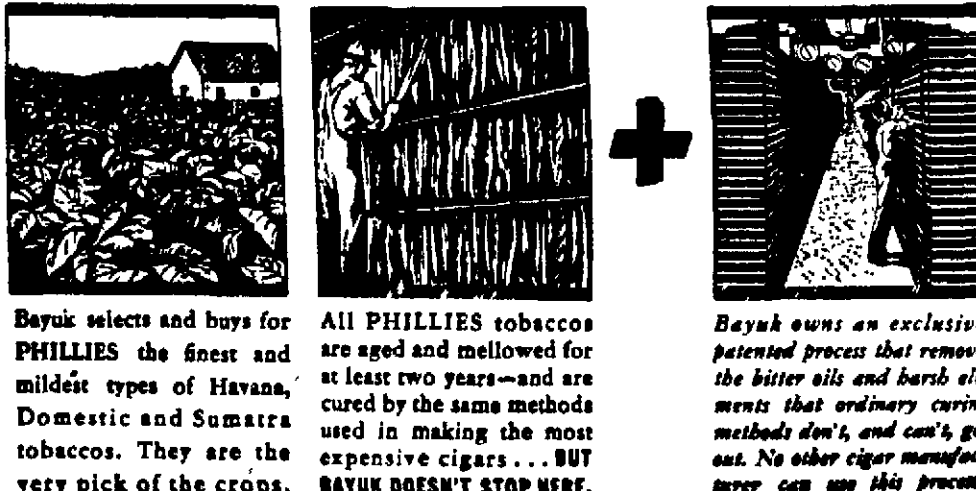

The Blue Sox A. C. Softball team will play Apollo Magneto tonight at Hasbrouck Park at 8:30. Friday night the Blue Sox will play the Frank Parolow All Stars at Hasbrouck Park at 8:30. Anyone wishing games call George Dougherty, phone 1223-J, at 5 o'clock p. m.

DOES THIS ANSWER YOUR PROBLEM?

SAY, BILL - THIS PHILLIES IS SURE ONE GOOD SMOKE! WHAT YOU SAID ABOUT THAT BAYUK PROCESS IS ABSOLUTELY RIGHT. HAVEN'T TASTED A SIGN OF BITTERNESS OR BITE YET. CERTAINLY GLAD TO FIND A CIGAR THAT'S MILD FROM END TO END.

WHY PHILLIES ARE FREE OF BITTER, BITEY, RASPY TASTE

Bayuk selects and buys for PHILLIES the finest and mildest types of Havana, Domestic and Sumatra tobaccos. They are the very pick of the crops.

All PHILLIES tobaccos are aged and mellowed for at least two years—and are cured by the same methods used in making the most expensive cigars... BUT BAYUK DOESN'T STOP HERE.

Bayuk owns an exclusive, patented process that removes the bitter oils and harsh elements that ordinary curing methods don't, and can't, get out. No other cigar manufacturer can use this process.

Kingston Netmen Bow To Newburgh

Kingston High School's tennis squadron fell before the vaunted
power of Newburgh Free Academy's racquetweavers Wednesday in their court debut at the downriver surfaces by a 7-0 count. Newburgh Academy, possessing the finest court array in the valley, swept all but one set against the locals in administering a shutout to the Maroon. The veteran combine of Coach Fowler headed by Captain Howie Schuck, played with matchless precision and with the advantage of two meets already under their belts were too advanced for the localities.

The Academy tennisers are undefeated in two successive years of scholastic competition and have dropped but two sets in that space of time. Billy Newkirk, blond haired
No. 4 man, took the second set yesterday afternoon in a ding-dong battle with Joe Heetus. Captain Howie Schuck ran his streak of victories one notch farther by taking over Bernie Gordon, local No. 1 man by scores of 6-3, 6-4. The Academyites went on to win the five singles and swept the doubles duo. Kingston contests N.
Y. M. A. at Cornwall Saturday in its second start of the week in the annual jaunt to the prep school. The summaries of the KHS-NFA court
duels follow:

Bernie Gordon (KHS) lost to Howie Schuck (NFA) 6-3, 6-4.
Art Jones (KHS) lost to Bill
Tighe (NFA) 6-2, 6-4.
George Swirsky (KHS) lost to George Manuche (NFA) 6-2, 6-1.
Bill Newkirk (KHS) was defeated
by Joe Heetus (NFA) 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.
George Rifenbary (KHS) lost to Joe Tiso (NFA) 6-1, 6-1.

Doubles
Schuck and Tighe (NFA) defeated
Gordon and Swirsky (KHS) 6-4, 6-2.
Tiso and Manuche (NFA) defeated
Jones and Newkirk (KHS) 6-3, 6-4.

Girls Barred From Baseball

Camden, N. Y., May 13 (AP)— School authorities, heading the stand-taken by the State Education Department against girls "putting on a show for the public," said today that Miss Nina Kiel, fifteen-year-old blonde, will play no more baseball
with the junior high school team.
The attractive first baseman who led her team to a 17 to 1 win last week over the Central New York School for the deaf at Rome, said
she would be a good sport about it and cheer the team from the sidelines.

Ellis H. Champin, chief of the state's physical education bureau at Albany, had told school officials that we do not favor putting on a show
for the public."

FOREST HILL TOURNEY START SLATED TODAY

Bloomfield, N. J., May 13 (AP)— Long-driving Sam Snead combined
his New York debut with the opening of the summer tournament campaign today as he teed off in the opening 18-hole round of the 30th
annual Metropolitan Open Golf Championship at the Forest Hill Field Club.

Chosen as a Ryder Cup team candidate on the basis of one winter's play, the White Sulphur Springs, W.
Va., pro found himself in good company. He has paired with Henry Picard, lean stylist from Hershey, Pa., who was "Met" champion in 1935, and Clarence Clark, the dapper blond home club professional who placed third in last year's National Open.

Two of the group seeking top money in the $2,000, 72-hole tournament, Craig Wood and Paul Runyan, formerly were pro at Forest Hill.
Runyan, "Met" champion in 1934, holds the course record of 61, set in 1930 when he served here as assistant under Wood.

Louis, 23, Looks For $1,000,000

Kenosha Wis., May 13 (AP)—Joe Louis observed his 23rd birthday today, cheerful over the prospect of increasing his ring earnings to $1,000,- 000 by the time he fights James J.
Braddock for the world's heavyweight championship.

There was no celebration in the negro challenger's training camp, aside from a little dinner for his camp attendants tonight. Bill Bottoms, his cook, promised to bake a cake with 23 flickering candles and give him plenty of his favorite dish
—fried chicken.

Since the Brown Bomber quit working in a Detroit automobile plant three years ago, at $5 a day,
he has amassed the amazing total of $758,000 from his engagements in the ring. He began his professional career, July 4, 1934, receiving a paltry $50 for his first bout. At the end of 1936 he had earned $711,923.
Starting off the present year he collected $37,314 for his bout with Bob Foster and $8,826 for flattening
Natie Brown in Kansas City.

Out of this total Louis has saved
about $250,000. He built a home for his mother in Detroit and purchased a six-flat apartment building
for himself on fashionable Michigan Boulevard in Chicago. He also is paying for a $200,000 annuity. Aside from purchasing automobiles and fine clothes, Louis does not waste his money. His co-managers, John Roy borough and Julian Black, see to that. Within the last two years he has acquired six or eight automobiles and 50 or more suits, with the necessary accessories.

RECOMMENDS ESKIMOS FOR MARATHON RUNNERS

Anchorage, Alaska, May 13 (AP)— College track scouts hunting talent can take a tip from Gren Collins of the Alaska Game Commission's Arctic Patrol, who would like to back a few Eskimos against marathon runners and high jumpers in the states.

Eskimos are inferior to white men in sprints, but have wonderful endurance in longer races," Collins said. "I could beat them easily in short runs but in long runs they can go mile after mile in loose snow without appearing tired, though they are clothed in furs."

He told of holding his hands above his head at a height of more than seven feet and having an Eskimo kick them with both feet together.
Eskimos play a game something like soccer with great skill. During his stay at Wainwright, on the northern Alaskan coast, natives stuffed a leather ball with reindeer hair and played "bour after hour."

Opponents in one of their more barbaric games place sharpened sticks against each other's lower lips
and push to see who will endure pain longest, he said. In another, cords are tied to one another's ears and the "players" pull to see who gives in first.

KYANIZE CLUB WILL DRILL FRIDAY AT ATHLETIC FIELD.

The Kyanize Painters will practice Friday evening, starting at 6 o'clock, at the Athletic Field. Manager Jack Dawkins requests all members of the squad to be present.

Another DiMaggio

Oakland, Calif., May 13 (AP)—Another DiMaggio was in baseball's spotlight today, Dominic, brother of the New York Yankees' Joe Di-Maggio, crashing out a homer and three other hits last night to help
the San Francisco Seals whip Oakland 8 to 7.

Naming the Ladybug

The ladybug, ladybird, or lady beetle is not named for Ma, the Great Mother of the Gods, but for Our Lady, the Mother of Jesus, to whom the insect was dedicated in the Middle Ages, perhaps for its services to man, says a writer in the New York World-Telegram.
Most of the lady beetles are predacious, feeding as larva and adults
on small insects and eggs of larger ones, plant lice and scale insects.
When the cottony-cushion scale insect came to California from Australia the ladybird Vedalia was also brought from Australia to save California's oranges.

Wrote for Posterity

When Samuel Butler, the English author, wrote his first book the public received it coldly, in other words
it remained unread and unnoticed.
Butler declared he would write no more for his contemporaries but would write for posterity only. And sure enough, he was right. He died in 1902, and his books almost unknown, and immediately after his death his "Erewhon" took the world by storm, and he was placed among the great writers of his generation.

Windsor Demands British Recognition

talked by telephone last night, both with George and their younger brother, the Duke of Kent, whom Windsor wants to be his best man.

King George, backed by the stately Queen Mother Mary, whose deep hold on the hearts of her people was yesterday's coronation, was said to feel that Britain owed its former king a public celebration of his wedding.

Windsor feted the coronation of his brother into the morning hours
today after a special dinner party at the Chateau de Candé where he and Mrs. Warfield are guests.

Long after midnight lights blazed
from the windows of the ancient castle. Windsor and his fiancée were described as happy and gay
after doing their best to make the coronation a success through self-imposed seclusion.

Even further secrecy was imposed on their activities by the Duke who was said to have been annoyed that the engagement had been announced
just before his brother's coronation.
The engagement announcement came from friends who believed the Duke had authorized its publication.

"The Duke feels that until some announcement can be made regarding his marriage it will be better not to give piecemeal details," Rogers said.

Indications at the Chateau, however, were that a statement of the wedding plans might be made next Monday, leading to the belief that the deadlock between the British government and its ruler might be broken by the time.

BILL CORUM SHOT, REAL ESTATE MAN HELD

New York, May 13 (AP)—A 24-year-old real estate operator, Edward Lawford, faced charges of felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan law today in the shooting of William (Bill) Corum, 46, Evening Journal
sports columnist.

Corum was wounded in the hip early yesterday. At first he told detectives a stray bullet hit him while walking in the street past a tavern
in which two men were fighting.
After questioning, though, he said
detectives declared, he was accidentally shot in a Park avenue apartment by Lawford who was demonstrating the action of a revolver.
The shooting took place, the columnist said, in the apartment of Ruth Lamar whom Corum had escorted home from a night club.

The Moscow subway system transported 110,500,000 passengers in the last year without an accident.
